h confusion resulted Monday from st test of the new one-way traffication devised by Street Commissioner Talbot and Police Board McPherson and requiring all to run in one direction on Sixth seventh streets, between Washington and Market street.

McPherson in person superintended the inauguration of the new traffic rule at all busy corners in the zone to direct drivers and motorists.

Observations made by Post-Dispatch show that the rule will place pedestrians in danger. In the town streets until the public, in-rally, as well as drivers of vehicles, are accustomed to it.

Under the rule, all vehicles passing high Seventh street between Market and Washington avenue must go south on the west side of the street. All vehicles passing through Sixth street must go south on the east side. This is a direct reversal of the traffic rules which apply to all other parts of the city. In the one-way zone, the driver always is on the "wrong side" of the street.

Sixth and Olive streets at 11 a. m. an elderly woman crossed in front of a Tower Grove car which had stopped north of Olive street to take on passengers. The car entirely obstructed view of the east side of Sixth to the north.

She wasn't thinking of danger from direction. From force of long habi-tude looked south on Sixth street to whether any vehicle was coming that direction. Apparently the was clear. She had been accustomed seeing vehicles driven north right-hand side of the street.

JUNE MARRIAGE RUSH ON

Licenses Clerk Ruedi Issues 40

Permits by 11:30 A. M.

The stampede to marry in June started in the license clerk's office in the city hall at 8 a. m. Monday. Clerk Gus

Ruedi opened the office an hour early.

By 11:30 he had issued 40 licenses, which is about the same number issued by that hour a year ago.

When Ruedi reached the office he found one couple, Guy White, 19, and

Anna Schmidt, 22, both of Greenville,

Ill., waiting for him. Before the licence was issued another couple had arrived, and there was a steady line of applicants the rest of the morning.

WEDDING DATE CHANGED

C'ech Ceremony for Roosevelt

Nuptials to Be June 11.

MADRID, June 1.—A further change in the date of the church wedding of Kermit Roosevelt and Miss Willard was announced today.

The religious ceremony is to be performed on June 11 and not on June 10 as stated Saturday. The civil function will be carried out on June 10.

For

374 consecutive Sundays

over 7 full years

the SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH has led all other St. Louis newspapers in the volume of business carried.

This is an unparalleled record. No other metropolitan

Sunday newspaper in the United States has ever approached it.

On last Sunday, May 31, the total count was as follows:

Post-Dispatch, 298 Cols.

Globe-Democrat, 190 "

Republic 111 "

In local merchants' display advertising

The Post-Dispatch alone carried . . . 146 Cols.

The Globe and Republic combined . . . 127 Cols.

On 44 days thus far this year the Post-Dispatch has equaled or exceeded all the other St. Louis papers combined in columns of city merchants' display advertising carried on the same day.

PEACEMAKER DIES AFTER FIST BLOW IN SALOON FIGHT

Autopsy Physician Says Fall to Floor May Have Caused Cerebral Hemorrhage.

In connection with the mysterious death of Gus Bigalke of 1548 Buck avenue, in Samuel Null's saloon at 6725 Wal-terman avenue, the police Monday arrested Thomas J. Schill and John W.
Secret, who live above the saloon, and are looking for William Ferguson, who is said to live in East St. Louis.

When Bigalke's body was found late Saturday night, the police thought he had died a natural death in the saloon.
Upon investigation, they said they found that he interfered in a fight between Secret and Ferguson, and that Ferguson had hit him with his fist on the neck.
Schill told the police that Bigalke was knocked unconscious by the blow, and that he and Ferguson carried him into a rear hall of the saloon and placed him on chairs.

A post-mortem examination, made by the coroner's autopsy physician, showed that Bigalke's death was caused by a hemorrhage of the brain. Dr. E. H.
Herschen, who made the autopsy, said he was unable to determine whether the hemorrhage was caused by the blow from the fist or from striking the floor when he fell.

Bigalke was a blacksmith, 45 years old.

STATE AUTO LICENSES IN 4 MONTHS OUTSTRIP 1913

Number Issued From Jan. 1 to May 29 Is 49,957, Bringing in $186,943.

JEFFERSON CITY, June 1.—More automobile licenses have been issued in Missouri in the first four months of 1914 than were in the year of 1913.
The number issued to May 29, 1914, is 49,957, which netted the State $186, 943.30 revenue.

The total number issued last year was 38,143. Of the 18 licenses, 10,118 were obtained by St. Louisans and 982 by automobile owners in Kansas City.

Went to Flat River.

The coroner's investigation may extend as far as Flat River, Mo., as Mrs.
Mussler, after her husband's conviction, went to the home of her parents there.
Several Flat River physicians were consulted in an effort to save the child's life.

After remaining in Flat River several weeks Mrs. Mussler returned with the child to her St. Louis home, where it died.

Over the telephone from the workhouse Mussler told a reporter he had never beaten his stepchild. He said he and his wife had been on friendly terms, and he could not understand why she accused him of cruelty to the child.
He knew the child was ill, he said, but supposed it had Bright's disease.

MILITANTS BURN CHURCH

Edifice, 376 Years Old, Is Destroyed in England.

"HENLEY, England, June 1.—An arson squad of militant suffragettes today destroyed the historic parish church of St.
Mary, Wargrave, three miles from here on the Thames. All that remains of the church, which was built in 1588, is a portion of the tower and the scorched stone walls.

Two women strangers were seen in the neighborhood early this morning. Just inside the ruins the firemen found a hammer and a heap of suffrage literature with a placard: "Stop persecuting women."

Former Home of Duchess of Suther-

WINDSOR, England, June 1.—A fire, which the police say was started by sufnear here. The house was formerly the residence of the Duchess of Sutherland.

Pageant Tomorrow if It Rains Tonight

SHOWERS early this morning caused apprehension among thousands planning to attend the final performance of the Pageant and Masque tonight, which itself is a performance postponed from Friday night on account of rain. The official weather forecast is "fair tonight."

The Pageant management has announced that if rain should prevent tonight's performance, a final one will be given tomorrow night. At that time tickets for the Monday performance, and seat checks from the postponed performance of Friday night will be honored.

BABY DIES; MOTHER SAYS STEPFATHER OFTEN WHIPPED IT

Inquiry Is Started After Doctor Who Treated Infant Refuses to Sign Certificate.

An inquiry into the death of John Howard McGowan, 23-months-old son of Mrs. Anna Mussler of 1909 Hogan street, was started by the coroner and the police Monday after Dr. David C. Todd of 4523 Page boulevard had notified the coroner that he would not issue a death certificate.

Mrs. Mussler told the police her husband, Robert Mussler, the child's stepfather, had frequently beaten it. Dr.
Todd said he was called to treat the child April 29 and that at that time there was a large lump on its abdomen.
Other doctors were called into consultation and it was treated for Bright's disease and internal injuries.

Her Husband in Workhouse.
Mrs. Mussler said that while she and her husband conducted a restaurant at 4670 Easton avenue he beat the child and threw it on a cot Dec. 17 last, and that he did the same on March 24. He often beat the child, she said, alleging that his crying interfered with his business.

Mussler on Jan. 25 last, while driving an automobile, ran down and injured
Harold Lamerling, 15 years old, of 3815
North Newstead avenue. He was charged with felonious assault, but was permitted to plead guilty to carelessness and was sentenced to serve a year in the workhouse. He is still a prisoner there.

SENATE DEFERS INQUIRY INTO NEW YORK CENTRAL

Refers to Committee a Resolution Asking Attorney-General
if Road Breaks Law.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—By a vote of 31 to 20, the Senate today referred to the Interstate Commerce Committee the Norris resolution asking the attorney-general to state if the New York Central lines constitute a combination in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, and if he intends to proceed against it.

The effect of sending the Norris resolution to the Interstate Commerce Committee is to delay action. Senator Norris objected to that course. Other Senators, some of them Democratic leaders, objected to calling on the attorney-general to disclose his intentions in a matter which might be the subject of litigation.

reached port Sunday, leaking.
The steamer's bow was badly damaged from contact with ice floes.

PAGEANT SUCCESS IN FINANCIAL WAY SEEMS ASSURED

Contributions and Incidentals
Bring $70,000 and $45,000
Is Likely From Seats.

The Pageant and Masque of St. Louis will be a financial success, as well as an artistic success, Pageant officials said Monday. If the receipts from the sale and rental of moving pictures are up to expectations.

The cost of producing the Pageant,
as originally announced, was $125,000.
Later, in a statement made by the Finance Committee, a minimum estimate of $118,000 was made, as representing the least amount which could suffice. It is believed now that the actual cost of the production will prove to be nearly the first figure, $125,000.

Contributions, Etc., $70,000.
From voluntary contributions, button
sales and registration fees of native St.
Louisians, the Finance Committee now has on hand more than $70,000.

The revenue from the Forest Park concessions is figured by those in charge of the concessions at $200,000.
There will be an additional return from the sale of Pageant and Masque books at 25 cents a copy and programs at 10 cents.

Those in charge of seat sales said no accurate estimate of the sales for the four nights could be made, but that an estimate of $45,000 seemed reasonable.
Many more seats could have been sold, but for the large number reserved for visiting envoys, mayors and heads of commercial organizations, and for members of the cast, each of whom, except the principal characters, has one night off in the four, to see the show.

The total of $70,000 contributions, $45,000 from seats and $200,000 from concessions, would be $315,000, or the minimum estimate of cost of production. To provide for any excess of cost over the minimum, the management looks forward to the receipts from moving picture films.
It will take several weeks to determine how well the pictures are selling and renting. The Pageant management is to receive one-half the gross returns from the sale and rental, under its agreement with the St. Louis Motion Picture Co.

Pictures of Good Quality.
William W. LaBeaume, chairman of the Productions Committee, said the moving pictures taken thus far were of a superior quality. He believes the demand for them will be large, both in small sections for "weekly" exhibitions, and in complete films running for an hour or longer. He estimated some $200,000 in receipts from the pictures.

As Kolman was unconscious from a fractured skull, the police were unable to get a statement from him that might throw light upon the identity of his assailants and they held the diamond-bedecked shirt as a clue.

About an hour after the assault William P. Colbeck, 24 years old, of 3834 Lee avenue, called at the station and claimed the shirt. He was placed in a cell and questioned. Colbeck admitted striking Kolman but said the confectioner had hit him first. He named Fred Nussel, 40 years old, of 3815 Carter avenue, and James D. Clear, 25, of 3319 Bailey avenue as his companions.

Kolman's Condition Critical.
Clear was arrested at his home, and Nussel, upon learning that an order for his arrest had been issued, surrendered.
Nussel told the police he owed Kol-man $5 and that the latter had been dunning him. Sunday afternoon, Nussel said, Kolman told Loretto Nussel, the 15-year-old niece of Nussel, that he wanted to see her uncle "about that $5 he owes me." That angered Nussel and he and his brother-in-law, Clear, and Colbeck went over to Kolman's to demand an explanation.

Nussel said Kolman struck the first blow and that he and Colbeck each struck the confectio-ner in the jaw, causing him to fall heavily on the sidewalk.
Kolman is in a critical condition.

It should prove that receipts have been less, or expenses much greater, than the estimate, and should a deficit result, it is believed it will not be more than a few thousand dollars in amount, and that it will be made up by persons who realize the artistic and civic success of the Pageant, and who have not contributed largely heretofore.

Committee Reports Awaited.
B. J. Tausig, treasurer of the Pageant, said it was impossible to figure the cost of the production exactly until after the reports of all committees have been received.

Irving's Body Found.
The body of Laurence Irving, the English actor, was picked up last night on the west bank of the St. Lawrence below Rimouski.

Irving's face was bruised almost beyond recognition. A splint with the initials "L. I." on one of his fingers, led to the identification. One had still clutched a piece of cambric, probably torn from the night dress of his wife, who he was making desperate efforts to save when they were last seen alive.

100 of the Dead at Quebec Are Identified.
By Associated Press.
QUEBEC, June 1.—Identification of the dead from the scene of the wreck of the Canadian Pacific steamer, Empress of Ireland, is proceeding more rapidly than was expected. Nearly 100 of the 185 bodies brought here yesterday by the tender Lady Grey have thus far been recognized by friends and relatives. This is in addition to the 15 bodies identified and claimed at Rimouski.

Some of the identifications include persons of prominence, who lost their lives in the collision between the Empress and the collier Stordstad.

Great Steel Point, Jammed Over Collier's Bow

By Associated Press.
MONTREAL, June 1.—The sharp point of an anchor projecting from the twisted bow of the Norwegian collier Stordstad may explain why that vessel did such terrible execution when she rammed the Empress of Ireland early last Friday morning in the lower St. Lawrence.

An examination today of the collier's shattered plates revealed the anchor jammed in a position where it ripped through the hull of the Empress like a great can opener. The anchor point and portions of the battered steel surrounding it bore stains of blood.

The Government investigation of the sinking of the Empress of Ireland and the loss of 96 lives will be held in Montreal and will begin on Tuesday, June 2.
This announcement was made today at the offices of the Canadian Pacific Railway Co., owners of the lost vessel.

The investigation will be conducted by a board composed of two judges of the Canadian Admiralty and one representative of the British Admiralty.

"Capt. Anderson is deeply grieved over the tragedy," Nault continued.
"Several times during the trip from

One of the officers of the Stordstad said today:

around was filled with struggling men.

90,000 See Sunday Night Performance of the Pageant and Masque

SEATS FILLED BEFORE SHOW STARTS; HUNDREDS LEAVE RATHER THAN STAY

SPECTATORS AND VENDORS MAINTAIN SPLENDID ORDER

Only Objection Against Refreshment Sellers Was That They Raised Price of Drinks.

LEADING ACTORS TRIUMPH

Playing of "Star-Spangled Banner" Brings Great Audience to Its Feet.

Estimates of Sunday night's crowd on Art Hill varied from 90,000 to 125,000. Long before the Pageant began at 8:30 every available seat in both free and reserved sections had been taken. Even the latter were filled slightly earlier than usual, which possibly was accounted for by the beauty of the day and the fact that many did not care to push through the crowds which arrived at the last moment.

Cars filled with spectators arrived as late as 8 o'clock, but, unlike Saturday night, hundreds who could not get seats departed before the Pageant was over. In the intermission between the Pageant and Masque hundreds of others departed.

The standing space behind the seats was crowded, as on Saturday, but thinned perceptibly toward the middle of the Pageant performance. The crowd was more orderly than the night before, and little noise came from those standing. Even the soda water vendors were less clamorous and about the only objection voiced against the price of soda was that many had raised the price of soda in bottles, when served from trays, from 5 to 10 cents a bottle.

The playing of the "Star-Spangled Banner" by the orchestra concealed on the stage brought the immense crowd to its feet twice at the close of the Pageant, in the peace scene, and in the second part of the Masque, when St. Louis' representative on horseback had defeated War, the tool of Gold. After War had been unhorsed, the hero rider grasped a large American flag and unfurled it while riding about the stage. While in a certain sense the rising of the audience broke into the atmosphere created by the Masque, it was perceptible only for a moment, as the performance was continued immediately.

La Salle Romantic Figure.
The night was again one of individual triumph for the principal actors. Kevin J. Kane, as La Salle, made one of the most romantic figures in the entire Pageant. His voice was strong at all times, and carried to most of the audience. When he departed for the south, standing in the prow of his boat, leaning on his cross-hilted sword, with his golden locks falling over his shoulders, he seemed to have stepped from a storybook of the past.

Tom Anderson as Senator Benton in the scene depicting the return of Battery A from the Mexican campaign, and another who gave a pleasing rendition of his lines. The Dixie chorus, near the end of the Pageant, brought applause from parts of the audience. In the Masque, Charles Gray as Washington, the Great Bear, continued the excellent chanting of his lines, which have won much favorable comment since the first performance. Joseph Murphy, as Mississippi, won applause as he appeared from the twilight land in his barge, and Ludlow Maury Tucker, as Little St. Louis, caused frequent applause by his clear voice and stage presence. Besides the individual achievements of the actors, the ensemble scenes, especially the day of the three flags and the reception to Lafayette in the Pageant, and the opening scene and the journey scene in the Masque, won great favor.

PAGEANT SEEN BY 300,000 OR MORE

Hundreds of Others Were Unable to Get Within Seeing Distance Saturday.

A conservative estimate made by Post-Dispatch reporters of the crowds which have attended the Pageant and Masque performances places the total at 300,000, including Friday night, when the show was stopped by rain. The crowds are divided as follows: Thursday, 75,000; Friday, 30,000; Saturday, 100,000; Sunday, 90,000, which makes a count of 295,000. Counting those who stayed for parts of performances and thousands who left before Friday's show was started, the total is easily above 300,000.

Boxes, reserved and free seats, when filled, total 45,000. Behind the seats is an enormous space running back several hundred feet to the Art Museum, and extending from the extreme ends of the Pageant stage. In this space a group of 100 persons would be counted, and the space they occupied would be used as a unit to estimate the many were standing. It was impossible, however, to estimate the number of those who, Saturday night, could not get even within seeing distance.

ART HILL VENDOR TAUNTS CROWD AND ESCAPES WHIPPING

Reduces Soda Price With Remark About Closeness and Yowls Offer to Beat Him.

One of the congectionaries, evidently disappointed because the Pageant crowds did not fall over each other in a rush to buy his soda pop at the usual price of 10 cents a bottle, reduced the price to 5 cents at the close of the show, and as the audience was departing took a position in the center of the road and bellowed, "It's only 5 cents now. If you had a dime you would wait up and watch it. Most of the crowd took the remark good-naturedly, but two young men approached the vendor and offered to whip him. He attempted to run, but was caught by the crowd and held until he had calmed down. After that he contented himself with merely yelling the price of his soda.

Mrs. L. Marmaduke Eskridge of San Francisco, secretary of the Missouri-Columbia Society, and envoy from San Francisco to the Pageant and Masque, suffered a sprained ankle Sunday in a fall when climbing the Cahokia mound. Mrs. Eskridge was a member of a party of envoys taken on a visit to the mound by Dr. H. M. Whelpley. She slipped and fell several feet, her ankle turning under her.

John H. Gundlach, a leading spirit in the promotion of the Pageant, marveled at the good behavior of Sunday night's throng. "Isn't it wonderful how quiet this great audience is," he said. "It seems as though everyone has constituted himself a committee of one to assist the actors in making this drama a success."

Lafayette was being welcomed by the citizens when someone sitting near Mayor Kiel remarked, "Lafayette is standing on what is now the eastern approach of the Free Bridge, is he not?" "Yes, he is not," responded his friend, Kiel smiled.

Several of the most picturesque scenes in the Pageant and Masque were spoiled Sunday night by the yelling of the actors behind the scenes. Several times the volume of sound from the dressing tents was so strong as to almost drown the voices of the actors.

The minute that the Masque was over the crowds made for the cars, via the refreshment stands. There the demand for soda water was so great that no special brand was served upon request. "What a want, white or red soda?" became the customary formula, and "white or red?" it was until the last spectator had left the grounds. A daintily-gowned woman standing in front of one of the refreshment booths, holding a "hot dog" in one hand and drinking out of an upturned soda water bottle at the same time, was a common sight.

Seventeen persons suffering from ailments ranging from sudden attacks of indigestion to cuts from soda water bottles were treated Sunday night in the field hospital of the First Regiment.

CASE IS DISMISSED AGAINST MAN WHO CALLS SELF COUNT

Otto Kolm Is Freed of Charge of Obtaining Money Under False Pretense.

After Otto Kolm was freed of a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, in Judge Miller's division of the Court of Criminal Correction, Monday, he announced that he and his wife, who he married in Kansas City, would sail for Austria this month. Kolm says he is Count Otto Von Wallstatton, son of Count Joseph Von Wallstatton, who he says, lives in Vienna. He says he and his wife will visit the city.

Witnesses Are Absent.
The case against Kolm, which had once been continued because of the absence of witnesses for the prosecution, was dismissed for the same reason. The missing witnesses were officials of the Great Northern Manufacturing Co. of Chicago, who were desired to testify as to Kolm's connection with the firm.

William Reeve, the chief prosecuting witness, was in court, but did not testify, as his testimony was not considered sufficient without the others.

China Intended for Prices.
Reeve caused Kolm's arrest May 15, charging that Kolm sold him a half dozen of chinaware for $75, and collected $15 in advance, but failed to deliver the articles. Reeve said he learned that Kolm was no longer connected with the manufacturing company.

Reeve is a moving picture show proprietor, and the chinaware was intended to be sold as prizes for purchasers of tickets.

Kolm's defense, if the case had gone to trial, would have been that he took the order and forwarded it to the firm, and that a delay occurred in the filling of the order.

At the time of the arrest, Kolm and his wife were at the American Hotel, where they were known as Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Bowen of Chicago.

WINE GARDEN IS RAIDED

Carsonville Proprietors Held for Selling on Sunday.

Sheriff Bode of St. Louis County and three deputies raided the Carsonville Wine Garden, 15 miles west of St. Louis on the Natural Bridge road, at 9 p. m. Sunday, and arrested the proprietors, Carl F. Dischinger and Hans Wedemmann, on a charge of selling liquor on Sunday.

Wedemmann told the Sheriff he made the wine and that he had a right to sell it. Prosecuting Attorney Lashly holds that the maker of wine may sell it without a license, but that he cannot legally sell it on Sunday.

MACKAYE AND SMITH GET $2500 EACH FOR WORK

Converse and Stevens Receive $1500 Each From Pageant Association.

Percy MacKaye, author of the Masque of St. Louis, will receive $2500 from the St. Louis Pageant Drama Association for his work of authorship and the assistance he has given in staging the Pageant and Masque.

Joseph Lindon Smith, stage director of the Masque and designer of the scenic, costuming and lighting effects, also will receive $2500 for his services as "Sisters, Thomas Wood Stevens, who wrote the book of the Pageant proper, and who directed its production, will get $1500. The same sum will be paid to Frederick S. Converse, composer of the music for the Masque. These figures were given to a Post-Dispatch reporter Monday by a Pageant official thoroughly acquainted with the financial arrangements.

Expenses of Four to Be Paid.
In addition to the money the Pageant management will pay the railroad fare, hotel bills and other expenses of the four, Smith has spent more time here than the others, having been in St. Louis most of the time since the selection of the cast last February. Stevens, who made several week-end trips here from Pittsburg, while MacKaye came from New York less frequently. Both have been here continuously since the large rehearsals began three weeks ago.

Educational Value Cited.
The educational value of music concerts and art and costume exhibits, conducted on a municipal basis, to the masses, as demonstrated in New York, was told by Arthur Farwell, and Peter W. Dykeman spoke on "Christmas and New Year Possibilities," along similar lines. Percival Chubb, director of the St. Louis Ethical Society, spoke on "Byproducts of the Pageant and Masque," saying it was an awakening that would lead to greater culture in civic spirit and art of every kind. Other speakers were Thomas Wood Stevens, author of the Pageant; Frederick S. Converse, composer of the Masque music, and J. E. O. Primrose.

The conference also unanimously passed a resolution for the preservation, for at least three years, of the stage upon which the Pageant and Masque had been presented.

Preservation of Stage Urged.
The city ordinance under which the Pageant and Masque in Forest Park was authorized provided that the stage and seats on Art Hill should be taken down immediately after the big show. To preserve the stage and seats will be necessary for the Municipal Assembly to pass another special ordinance.

To bring about the passage of this ordinance it is probable a movement will be started at once and that the proposed ordinance will be presented at the next meeting of each branch of the Assembly. The resolution adopted by the Conference of Cities was presented by Percy MacKaye, author of the Masque.

It is understood that Park Commissioner Davis is opposed to the plan, although he said he would reserve his opinion until later.

Those most active in promoting the production say they to restore the park on Art Hill would only mean a reconstruction of the great stage and setting in future years, if a Pageant and Masque should be made an annual feature in a program of civic drama and art, and argue that it would entail a needless expenditure of money.

A permanent open-air theater on or near the site of the Pageant, the preservation of Cahokia Mound as a National Park and the perpetuation of the Pageant and Masque are among the principal aims of the association.

URGES THAT FINAL SHOW BE BEST

Gundlach Appeals to Pageant Performers—Plenty of 25-Cent Seats Remain.

John H. Gundlach, chairman of the Pageant Executive Committee, has issued an appeal to all Pageant performers to take their parts in the final night's performance, and make it the biggest and best of the four.

He made the same appeal personally to members of the various groups as they were waiting to go on the stage Sunday night. "Don't be a quitter," he urged.

It was announced Monday morning that seats for the final performance were still to be had in all except the 50-cent reserved spaces, which were sold out. There are plenty of 25-cent seats, and some $1 and $1.50 seats and a few boxes, left. An extra row of $1.50 seats was put in at the Sunday night performance to accommodate those from Friday night's audience who could not wait until Monday. This extra row was placed on sale Monday.

Boats Loaded and Moved by Members of Naval Reserve.
The large boats used in the Pageant were loaned by the Missouri Naval Reserve, and were rowed by members of the Reserve, under Commander G. F. Schwartz and Lieut. Brownlee Fisher. The balancing act on the mound, in the opening scene of the Masque, which caused much favorable comment, was done by students of the Yastman High School, directed by H. G. Lehmann.

The part of Poverty, in Sunday night's Masque performance, was taken by Miss Eleanor M. Dagenhart, 214 Franklin, formerly of St. Louis, and the attorneys representing the indicted city officials of East St. Louis who are yet to be tried on graft charges, Monday agreed to continue all the cases until the September term of court.

The first of the cases was set for June 8. The attorneys decided that it would not be advisable to go into the trial of cases lasting several weeks during the hot weather.

LEAGUE OF CITIES TO PROMOTE ARTS RESULT OF MASQUE

Plan Expressed in Percy MacKaye's Drama Carried Out by Conference of Envoys.

The formation of a "League of the Cities," at the closing of the Conference of Cities, held Sunday afternoon at the Wednesday Club, by envoys to the Masque of St. Louis, realized the plan of Percy MacKaye, author of the Masque. That plan was expressed in the poetic lines in which, at the end of the Masque drama, Saint Louis appeals to those whom he addresses as "Sisters, brothers, cities leagued by Love."

This closing scene of the Masque shows the cities banding together to defeat the foes of civic progress. In carrying out the poetic conception, the League was formed, to promote civic drama and other forms of municipal art. St. Louis is now pledged to cooperate in any manner desired in any municipal celebration given by another city. The first one in prospect is the Star-Spangled Banner Centenary in Baltimore in September.

SOCIALISTS SPLIT ON UPHOLDING NEW CHARTER

Those Opposing It After Debate Objecting to Abolishing of House of Delegates.

Socialists split Sunday on the question of advocating the proposed charter for the city, after a debate following speeches by Henry S. Caulfield, counsel for the Board of Freeholders, and George Safford, a Socialist opponent of the charter, at St. Louis Turner Hall.

Only 72 votes were cast when the question was put, and by a vote of 51 to 16, it was decided to oppose the charter. Those opposing the new charter laid greatest stress against the abolition of the House of Delegates. It was pointed out that the Socialists had almost succeeded in electing members of the House in several wards, but would have less chance of obtaining legislative representation under the new charter with a Board of Aldermen elected at large.

Tell President Receiver of Customs, Collecting Loan, Is Virtually a Dictator.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—John L. Morris, Secretary of the Treasury of Liberia, and Ernest Lyon, Consul-General at Baltimore for the African republic, conferred today with President Wilson.

They discussed the interpretation of the agreement by which the United States Department sanctioned a loan of $1,700,000 in 1912, and approved the appointment of Reed Faise Clark as receiver of customs.

Kuhn, Loeb & Co. made the loan. Morris and Lyon told the President that the receiver has assumed such broad powers as to practically make him a dictator.

The behavior of the Prince has formed the subject of a family council recently at which the Queen of Italy and Crown Prince Mirko were present.

CHARTER CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE MEETS TO NAME OFFICERS

Committee of 100 Plans Daily Meetings and the Distribution of Literature.

Plans for the new charter campaign were outlined Monday, when a committee of 100 citizens representing all the civil, political and district organizations in St. Louis met in the City Club rooms at noon to organize and select a chairman, secretary and treasurer.

The committee will select a headquarters and hold daily meetings until the campaign is closed on the day of the election, June 30. Plans for distributing copies of the charter, for writing and circulating literature, for getting the voters registered, June 16, when the registration books will be opened in all the voting precincts of the city, and for speaking in all the wards and many of the precincts of the city, will be arranged by the Campaign Committee.

The committee will represent every interest in the city. The big business interests will have just the same number of representatives on the committee as the labor organizations. The People's League, one of the two organizations which has gone on record as opposing the new charter, has been raised by the organizers of the committee and several of its strongest leaders and officials will be members of the Campaign Committee.

Several labor organizations, acting independently of the Central Trades and Labor Union, have selected representatives of the committee, and they will work during the campaign to induce the members of the labor unions throughout the city to vote for the charter.

Plans for a comprehensive and active campaign have been made by the temporary committee, of which Frank P. Crunden has been president and Roger N. Baldwin secretary. The temporary committee turned the work of the campaign over to the new Charter Campaign Committee at the City Club meeting.

N DECLARES IC OWNERSHIP SURE TO COME

Haven's Former President Lays Down Five Cents for Government of Corporations and Would Cut Big Salaries of Their Officials.

DEFENDS ROOSEVELT'S POLICY ON RAILROADS

Would Forbid Voting by Proxy and Declares That Stockholders Should Take a Personal Interest in Their Properties.

BOSTON, June 1.—Charles S. Mellon, former president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, who recently told the Interstate Commerce Commission the inside of New Haven high finance, gave an interview today, in which he declared that public ownership of railroads was inevitable.

"The outcry against public ownership will vanish," he said, "when the opportunity for making profit out of the stockholders is gone." He asserted that the republic could not endure if men continue the accumulation of gigantic fortunes, "with all the power that goes with them, and all the class distinctions and arrogance and servility which follow."

"Men like Mr. Brandeis and Mr. Wilson," he said, "appear to believe that the development of the last 20 years, increasing more and more the size of the business unit, has been unnatural and promoted by legislative partiality or by partiality in the enforcement of the law. They appear to believe that if the law could give everybody a share of the business, that it would be a deal nature would not abhor monopoly. Apparently, they deny the efficiency of the big unit."

Defends Col Roosevelt. On the other hand, men like President Roosevelt and other vigorous men in the history of our business development a natural tendency which must be recognized and dealt with, not by attempting to reverse the ordinances of nature, but by accepting the inevitable and adjusting themselves to it so that it may be most serviceable to the greatest number.

"I am of the same view as Mr. Roosevelt. It is also, I believe, the view of the Socialists. The Wilson and Brandeis view is that of the philosophical anarchists."

ECONOMICAL
SIX
$1575

The Studebaker light SIX was three years old before the public was able to buy it. We experimented at our own cost.

Studebaker SIX has the largest proportion of manufactured parts.

They have been so heat treated by strictly scientific methods that they are both lighter and immensely stronger.

Studebaker SIX standards demand that the front axle shall withstand being twisted seven times upon itself without a crack.

They demand that the rear axle shafts shall stand the same terrific torsion test. They demand perfect alignment, perfect lubrication and perfect balance, in the end that friction and vibration shall be eliminated and long life promoted.

Chiefly they demand that not one of the many economies arising from the light weight of the Studebaker SIX shall be purchased at sacrifice of strength or steadiness.

Send for the Studebaker Proof Book describing Studebaker manufacturing methods.

Fair Weather With Temperatures Above Normal This Week.

WASHINGTON, June 1. GENERALLY fair skies, with temperatures near or above normal are forecast by the Weather Bureau for the entire country during the coming week.

"The rainfall during the week will be generally light and local," says the bulletin. "The most disturbance of importance to cross the country will appear in the far West Tuesday or Wednesday, reach the great central valleys Thursday or Friday and the Eastern States near the end of the week."

"This disturbance will be attended by showers and thunderstorms and be followed by a change to cooler weather over the Northern States east of the Rocky Mountains."

forms:

1. That the salaries of the executive officers shall not be exorbitant. They are exorbitant now because the influential men who create these executive positions are stockholders for their own benefit. These executive officers and directors do not represent the stockholders at all. They represent bosses, entirely outside, who make enormous profits through their control of the railroad and outside the business.

2. Voting by proxy should cease. A stockholder at a stockholders' meeting should cast his own vote or not vote at all. Stockholders personally should understand their securities. Bankers make enormous profits by their corporation connections.

3. I would oblige the railroads to market their own securities. Bankers control railroads with the privilege of underwriting their securities. Bankers make enormous profits by their corporation connections.

4. I would make the board of directors direct, not only select directors who are not stockholders, but are not some outside interest. Directors ought to go over the railroad personally three or four times a year.

5. Majority stockholders ought to have a right, when they dissent on questions with the directors to call on the courts to compel the corporation to pay the expense of an appeal.

Mellon, in his statement, says: "The railroad accounting should be so rigid that not one penny could be spent for influencing legislation or public officials without the knowledge of the public."

"The temptation on the part of candidates for public office to receive assistance from the corporations in their campaign for election ought to be removed so far as possible. I also would have the legislative campaign expenses taken out of the public treasury. It is just as essential that the public furnish information to the voter as it is that it should maintain public schools."

TAILOR ASKS POLICE TO FIND HIS PARTNER

Page Avenue Business Man Wants Him to Account for $250 He Says Was Taken In.

Gustave Fox, a tailor, 4299 Cook avenue, asked the police Monday to find Joseph E. Wilkinson, 22 year old, his partner in the tailoring business at 3615 Page boulevard.

Fox told the police Wilkinson disappeared Saturday. He said he wanted his partner to account for $24 in collections and $31.35 in advance payments on suits ordered.

He also said he wanted Wilkinson to explain several bank checks against their joint account. Fox said their balance in it was $3, but it should be much larger.

BUFFALOED BY NICKELS

Negro's Spending of Coins for Beer Causes Arrest.

Buffalo nickels caused the arrest of Albert Drane, a negro, at his home, 702 North Jefferson avenue, on a charge of burglary. A saloon keeper told the police Drane had purchased at various times within two days 40 cents' worth of beer in 5-cent lots, paying each time with a Buffalo nickel.

Last Thursday night the home of Louis Garbarino, 2308 Lucas avenue, was ransacked. A diamond stickpin, a tie clasp, $10 in Buffalo nickels, four quarters and 1000 pennies were stolen. The police did not suspect Drane, who formerly lived at 236A Washington avenue, until they learned of the nickels. Garbarino's pin and clasp, the police said, were found in the negro's room.

MAN HELD AS PICKPOCKET

Said to Have Taught Collins, Caught at Union Station.

Thomas (Coxey) Holden, who, the police say, taught "Johnny" Collins the art of picking pockets, was arrested at Union Station as he was purchasing a ticket to go to Cincinnati Saturday night.

Monday was "shown up" to detectives at Police Headquarters. Holden has served prison terms in Jefferson City, Sing Sing, Nashville, Tenn.; Auburn, N. Y., and Toronto, Canada. Holden was not with another man when the detectives saw them. The other man, a stranger to the police, got away while the detectives were talking to Holden.

Four alleged pickpockets are now in jail. Besides Holden and Collins, there are Jim Hardy, alleged to have robbed street car passengers, and Frank Weigman.

WINTERS AND WIFE NOW CHARGED WITH PLOT TO MURDER

Detective's Affidavit Leads to Rearrest of Couple in Missing Girl Mystery.

By Associated Press.

NEWCASTLE, Ind., June 1.—Dr. W. A. Winters, Mrs. Byrd Winters, his wife, and W. H. Cooper, a boarder at the Winters' home at the time Catherine Winters, 19 years old, disappeared, March 20, 1912, were rearrested today charged with conspiracy to murder Catherine Winters and burn her body.

Warrants for the arrests were issued by County Clerk Thornburg on the affidavit of Prosecutor Walter R. Myers and Robert H. Abel, a detective, who has been investigating the disappearance of the girl.

Dr. and Mrs. Winters obtained their release on bonds of $10,000 each. Cooper already was in jail in default of bonds.

The grand jury is to be called immediately, it is said, to investigate the case. Dr. and Mrs. Winters and Cooper were arrested Saturday on a charge of conspiracy to commit a felony. The Winters were released on $5000 bond each.

A search for a clew to the whereabouts of the girl, was conducted at the former residence of the family yesterday.

After a day spent in digging up the grounds and cellar of the family's present home, which resulted in the finding of a small red sweater, a hair ribbon and stained undergarments, the searchers opened a dug out a quantity of lime without, however, finding any new evidence.

R. H. Abel, the detective under whose direction the search was made, issued a statement declaring that additional evidence had been found that warranted the taking of a fourth person into custody.

The detective declared that Dr. Winters had interfered with his investigations after being released on a $5000

PHONE CALLS MAKE ALTON VIGILANTES' PRESIDENT RESIGN

Mrs. John Leverett Explains That Night and Day Inquiries Have Affected Her Nerves.

After six years' service as a hard-worked executive, Mrs. John Leverett submitted her resignation as president of the Vigilant Improvement Association of Alton Monday afternoon.

Jangling telephone bells got on her nerves, she told a Post-Dispatch reporter, and the amount of detail work grew at such a pace that she feared her health would be seriously impaired if she retained her position as president.

Mrs. Leverett saw the membership of the organization grow almost overnight from 50 to 700 when Upper Alton was annexed to Alton about a year ago. Until then the organization's name had been the Village Improvement Association of Upper Alton and its activities had been confined to the village.

Bought a Sprinkling Cart. The members contributed funds to purchase a sprinkling cart for Upper Alton. They planted flowers along the curb lines of residence streets and several times a year they formed broom brigades and cleaned the village streets and alleys. They also conducted moral crusades.

The fame of the village improvement association had spread to the adjoining city when annexation was voted, and hundreds of women flocked to Mrs. Leverett's standard, forming a new and larger association and placing her at the head of it.

"There was no end of work," said Mrs. Leverett. "The ladies relied on me for everything. When there was the slightest doubt as to what should be done, they called me on the telephone. Day and night I heard the jangling of those bells and the strain on my nerves was greater than I could bear."

Physician Advises a Rest. "I should like to continue as head of the association, but my physician has advised me to resign and take a long rest."

Mrs. Leverett, who has grown children, occupies a high social position in Upper Alton, but the demand on her time in connection with the association's work has deprived her of social relaxation. She returned recently from Key West, where she went for a rest on advice of her physician. When she reached home she found an immense amount of accumulated work awaiting her.

The association played a prominent part in the recent local option election in Alton. All the members were active workers in the anti-liquor cause. Though defeated, they are planning to be equally active when the liquor question again is put to a vote.

MAJORITY FOR TOLL REPEAL, SAYS SIMMONS

Leader of Fight Against Exemption Says Measure Will Get 52 Votes in Senate.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—After a conference of leaders of the fight to pass the Panama tolls exemption bill repeal, Senator Simmons said that the measure would get the votes of 52 Senators, a safe majority. Senator Simmons declared his lineup did not include any Senator considered doubtful.

So far no attempt has been made to sound sentiment on various amendments, or to discover if an arbitration resolution could pass.

Several Senators, it was said, who favor arbitration, would not vote for such a resolution until the repeal had been passed.

SUFFRAGETTES EJECTED

LONDON, June 1.—A suffragette evaded officials in St. Paul's Cathedral, mounted the steps of the lectern at the morning service yesterday and harangued the worshippers on the "wrongs of women" for nearly a minute, despite the efforts of police to dislodge her. She finally was carried bodily from the cathedral. Other suffragettes then began praying for "Martyred women."

In the Birmingham Cathedral yesterday women rose in their seats and shouted: "In the name of Christ, stop forcible feeding!"

MEDICAL SOCIETY ASKED TO TAKE UP FACE POWDER CASE

City hospital physicians said Monday they would report to the St. Louis Medical Society the details of the unusual case of Miss Emily Fuller, who developed paralysis of the left wrist from the constant use for 10 years of face powder containing lead carbonate.

Miss Fuller estimates that she was treated by 50 physicians for almost a many different ailments during the time that the lead was accumulating in her system and degenerating the musculospiral nerve in her left forearm and hand, which finally produced paralysis of the wrist, or "wrist drop," as it is called by physicians.

It is a peculiar attribute of lead that wherever it gains entrance to the human system it accumulates in the vicinity of this forearm muscle, and Dr. L. R. Sante of the city hospital staff discovered the mysterious cause of Miss Fuller's long-continued ill health by properly diagnosing this symptom.

Miss Fuller could not recall that she had ever come in contact with lead, when questioned by Dr. Sante, and he asked for a sample of the face powder she had used regularly for 10 years, as a last resort to discover the source of the lead poisoning. Dr. Sante analyzed it and found it contained lead carbonate. He analyzed her blood also, and corroborated his theory of lead poisoning by determining that the red corpuscles had degenerated.

The unusual manner of contracting the disease makes the case of Miss Fuller worthy of special study, physicians at the hospital say, and the medical society will be made acquainted with its details. The face powder used by Miss Fuller is a common variety used by thousands of women. It is a patented preparation. Miss Fuller said she used it with rose-water and glycerin, about six times a day for 10 years. Her sister, Mrs. Clara Caldwell, with whom she lives at 419 Chouteau avenue, used the same powder without manifesting ill effects.

Dr. Sante said Miss Fuller ultimately may recover entirely from the effects of the lead, but it will require years to eliminate the last of it from the nerve that has become partly atrophied. She is taking medicine to absorb the lead and a massage treatment to stimulate the affected muscles and nerves.

Miss Fuller lost 20 pounds in weight after the symptoms first developed. She was advised by physicians that she had rheumatism and numerous other ailments, but none could effect a cure. She is 21 years old.

POLICE CLUB AND ARREST 15. W. W.'S IN JOHN D.'S TOWN

Invaders' Attempts, to Hold Meetings, Sunday, Lead to Battles in Streets.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 1.—Twenty-two I. W. W. agitators, headed by Alexander Berkman, went to Tarrytown yesterday and from shortly after noon until late at night battled with policemen and unsympathetic crowds for what they described as "the fight for free speech in John D. Rockefeller's burg."

At midnight the Tarrytown jail held 15 agitators. This included 11 I. W. W. orators, who had been arrested Saturday after what they termed "a mild demonstration."

Yesterday's I. W. W. meetings were largely in the nature of protests against the arrest of the 11 comrades on Saturday. From the moment that Berkman, David Sullivan and 20 other reached Tarrytown from New York, they were in conflict with the police.

Policemen Use Their Clubs.

When the Bluecoats found their fists ineffective they used their clubs. But they insisted this was done only after "seditious words" had been uttered by the agitators. About 500 persons followed Berkman and his protesting fellows about the town and hoisted outside the court when Rebecca Edelson, Arthur Caron, Edward Plunkett and the others, jailed on Saturday, were arraigned.

Berkman and his delegation started a scathing oration about 1 o'clock. One of the agitators spoke in favor of free speech and against "police oppression." A dozen policemen rushed at the speaker. Men were swept from their feet and kicked and stepped on.

Berkman Finally Routed.

Patrolman Cregier, six feet tall, says one agitator cried: "If I had a gun I'd put a bullet in you!" Cregier beat the man with his club. Berkman and Sullivan argued with the police who drove him and followers from street to street to North Tarrytown. Helen Harris, a slip of a girl known among the I. W. W. as "Helen of Troy," also argued with the police.

After the early skirmishes the agitators returned. The police again rushed them and the agitators retreated to North Tarrytown. Berkman mounted a soap box and said: "Fellow citizens, I know you all admire a man who is fighting for his rights. I am fighting for free speech which the Constitution gives us. I do not care what the police say and what they do. John D. Rockefeller may own this town, but he cannot stop free speech."

"The police are coming," shouted someone and Berkman fled. He was overtaken by Policeman Patrick O'Connell, who shook him and told him to "back it." Berkman did.

Sullivan, Joe Velocelli and several other associates of Berkman again fought the police and were arrested.

John D. and His Son at Church, First Time Since Agitators Beat Them.

NEW YORK, June 1.—John D. Rockefeller and his son, John D. Rockefeller Jr., attended Sunday morning services at the Calvary Baptist Church yesterday for the first time since the Industrial Workers of the World and Socialists, under the leadership of Upton Sinclair, commenced to annoy them two months ago.

TROLLEY POLE KNOCKS WORKMAN FROM WAGON

It Falls While He Is Repairing Wire and His Skull Is Fractured.

Fred Carter, 26 years old, of 1800 Papin street, a United Railways trolleyman, was knocked from the elevated platform of a "trouble wagon" by a falling trolley pole at California and Russell avenues Sunday night. His skull was fractured and he was taken to the city hospital in a critical condition.

About 10 p. m. a southbound Tower Grove car jumped the track at California and Russell avenues and knocked down a Kinloch telephone pole at the southwest corner. The telephone pole fell against the trolley pole, loosening it from its base and breaking the trolley feed wire. No one was injured in that accident.

Carter was a member of the crew sent from the railway company's central "trouble" station to mend the break, and while he was mounted on the raised platform of the repair wagon the trolley pole fell, knocking him 20 feet to the street. He was unconscious when picked up.

Richard Harding Davis Rides With the Troop to Rescue of Waterworks

"Thank God, We Are in Time" Is Set Speech of Troopers to Waiting Marines.

3000 MEN GUARD PLANT

They Have First Pick of Supplies That Farmers Take to Vera Cruz Markets.

By Richard Harding Davis.
(Copyrighted by the Wheeler Syndicate, Incorporated, 1914.)

VERA CRUZ, June 1.—Water for this city is pumped out of the Jampara River at Tejar, nine miles from Vera Cruz. To guard the waterworks are 300 marines with Benhamer quick-firing guns and three-inch field pieces. But in places the nine miles of iron pipe through which the water is forced to the city is exposed and could be destroyed.

To prevent this every day one of the two troops of the Sixth Cavalry here patrols the line of water pipe, and after a rest at Tejar returns to Vera Cruz. It is a joke of the troopers that they daily expeditions are to rescue the Tejar garrison of marines. On arriving the troopers exclaim, "Thank God, we are in time," and the marines retort with solicitude, "Did you lose many men on the way up?"

Since the murder of Parks no one is permitted to go beyond our outposts except on the train to Tejar and on the train to where on the road to Mexico City the tracks are torn up. These trains are guarded by marines and infantry and the one that meets the passengers from Mexico City carries a wireless apparatus.

The only other way to escape from Vera Cruz is to ride out with the patrol. When you are with it you are not supposed to be beyond our line, because the patrol itself is an outpost and prevents you from carrying information to the enemy and the enemy from shooting you.

He Sees the Rescue.
I went with the troop and saw the daily rescue of the garrison. There were no fatalities. The cavalry camp is on the outskirts of the city, in a coconut grove. Capt. Myers was in command, and at 7:15 o'clock gave the order to mount. We started up the railroad in what the infantry would call single file and the cavalry a column of troopers. Three hundred yards in advance of the troop was a point of five men with a Sergeant.

They were linked to us by a connect-trooper, who by twisting his neck was able to see the Captain's semaphore. Through him a message was sent to the point. Trailing the troop, a rear guard of four, each man with a rifle, a hundred rounds of ammunition and an automatic pistol and in a saddle bag a sandwich.

Marching at a fast walk, soon we were clear of the city limits, and for three miles the double track of the Mexican Central runs along the same embankment with the single Alvarado track. Between these and on either edge of the line are paths beaten by the hoofs of burros, mules and ponies bringing into Vera Cruz milk, vegetables, eggs and chickens.

At that hour there was an almost unbroken procession. The milk was carried in cans set in saddle bags of new hide, and as the little ponies that bore the burden moved at a dog trot the wonder grew that when the milk reached Vera Cruz it had not changed to cheese and butter.

Chickens Ride on Burros.
Chickens and turkeys are brought in alive in wicker cages rising from each flank of the donkeys in tiers, or more frequently the chickens are hung, tied by the feet, in bunches. From beneath this living cloak of feathers the legs and ears of the burros alone are visible. We passed hundreds of these patient, faithful little beasts loaded down with charcoal, sugar cane, bundles of green grass, pineapples, bananas, lettuce and mangoes. They slipped and fell over railroad ties, dodging in and out among the big troop horses that in comparison towered like elephants.

The farmers are encouraged by Gen. Funston to enter our lines. The fresh food they bring is very welcome, and what else they bring in their saddlebags no one asks. The other night a Mexican arrived at the American outpost with four burros, each carrying two suit cases, in which he told the sentry he had $100,000. The sentry said it was a joke, but after Col. Villet and his officers of the Fourth army had for four hours counted the contents of the suit cases it was decided it was a fact. The joke is now referred to be on the sentries. And every time in a lonely part of the trail we meet a burro carrying a valise we wished we were at war.

Good for Salping.
One mile beyond the city we passed our last outpost and so strict are the orders that, although I was in such good company, before I could go further I had to produce my pass. We now were outside, though not for some time beyond sight of our outposts. We were in the enemy's country, and a very beautiful country. It is also admirably adapted for an ambush or a trap. Day before yesterday the patrol saw 20 cavalrymen from a distance of 50 yards. Nothing happened, but today a band of these irregular men may stumble into the advance guard of the patrol, and, not firing the rest of the troops are within, may fire as they fired on Parks on an airship. And then all the horses and all the king's men being mediation back again.

Rode along the top of the railroad trestle, and from that elevation looked down on the swamps, beautiful white iris, morning glories and hills, like those at home, only as this hot house climate, of gigantic palm trees, crawling by, off the track and crowded up wheels and the swamp, horse to decide of the two

Japanese garden, shaded by palms encircled by the river and the wooded hills beyond waiting to be attacked. There seems at Tejar little to occupy the time. The enlisted men are not given permission to visit Vera Cruz, but seem content, as they should be. The burro trail passes through their camp, and before they reach Vera Cruz the marines have had the first pick of all the fruit, chickens and vegetables and they have a canteen where they can buy soft drinks.

The river has a firm sandy bottom and the rapids are swift enough to rub out all the stiffness of a day in the trenches.

The hospitality of the officers at Tejar is boundless and it needs must be. Every other officer on the warships and in the regiments was wishing to see this distant outpost stranded outside our lines self-supporting, so each day at the mess there are always new guests. One day there were 15, who would make the best housekeeper peevish, but Maj. Russell was as unmoved as when the Federal officer gave him 10 minutes in which to surrender Tejar.

LOST BALLOON NOT FOUND

Siberian Officials Report No Trace of Andree Expedition.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 1.—The authorities at Yakutsk report that they know nothing of the alleged discovery of the remains of the balloon in which Prof. S. A. Andree made an attempt in 1897 to reach the North Pole and perished.

According to a previous report parts of the balloon were said to have been found in a forest in Eastern Siberia. The Russian Government then instituted an investigation.

1400 Delegates to Convene.

NEW YORK, June 1.—Announcement was made here today that more than 1400 delegates representing 720 lodges, with a membership of 200,000, would attend the twenty-eighth annual convention of the Independent Order of B'nai B'rith, to be opened at Atlantic City Sunday. In the year just ended the organization has increased its lodges by 40 and its membership by 25,000.

BADGER TOLD NOT TO STOP LANDING OF HUERTA ARMS

Order From Washington Which Permitted Disembarkation, Angers Rebel Leaders.

By ROBERT H. MURRAY.

VERA CRUZ, June 1.—Direct orders from the Navy Department were responsible for the failure of the United States naval forces here to interfere with the landing at Puerto Mexico, Wednesday, of the Hamburg-American line Ypiranga's cargo of arms consigned to Gen. Huerta. These orders came to Rear Admiral Badger, I learn, from an unimpeachable source today. In response to his notification to the Washington authorities that Ypiranga had cleared from here for Puerto Mexico coupled with his request for instructions as to what he should do in the event the steamship attempted to disembark her cargo of war munitions.

In substance Admiral Badger was ordered not to interfere. Consequently not the slightest obstacle was placed in the way of the delivery of the cartridges, rifles and machine guns, so sorely needed by Huerta with which not only to equip his fresh levies, but to enable him to replenish the almost exhausted ammunition supply of the Federal forces who are depended on to repulse the Constitutionalists' advance southward.

The reports from Tampico and other northern points indicate that the rebels are enraged at the action of the United States in permitting Ypiranga's cargo to pass into the possession of the dictator. This, they argue, will add to the difficulty of overcoming Huerta's resistance and will serve to prolong the civil strife in the republic.

Arrivals from Tampico express the conviction that the Constitutionalists will allow no considerations advanced by the Washington Government to interfere with their plans of putting Huerta down and setting themselves up to the exclusion of any other anti-Huerta factions. The military leaders are espe-

3 MEN, WHO CAN'T SWIM, GIVE LIVES THAT 4 MAY LIVE

Leap From Sinking Boat When It Becomes Apparent Craft Cannot Carry All.

By ROBERT H. MURRAY.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

Copyright, 1914, by Free Publishing Co. (New York World).

VERA CRUZ, June 1.—Three young men yesterday gave their lives to save four companions, two of them girls, from drowning. None of the trio could swim but all leaped into the Delaware river from a sinking rowboat and were drowned.

The dead are John Mouthchek, Raymond Tinsley and John Murphy. Those saved are George German, Skrah German, Mary German and John Nevill. All resided in Philadelphia and were from 16 to 26 years old.

They were more than 100 yards from the shore when it was noticed that the craft was filling with water through the bottom.

None of the party could swim, but all the men volunteered to jump out that the others might be saved. The boat capsized shortly after the three men had disappeared in the water and the four other occupants were thrown into the river. Nevill and German, however, clung to the overturned craft and, grasping the girls as they were about to sink for the second time, held them until the party was rescued by a motor boat.

The Styles

There is not a passe or ordinary style in the entire collection—in fact, most of these dresses are ADVANCE FALL MODELS, MADE OF SUMMER MATERIALS, assuring you that any dress selected will represent the very latest word in correctness. There are clever trimming touches—NEW COLLAR STYLES GALORE—DAINTY LACE EFFECTS—select reproductions of Paris fashions in LONG RUSSIAN TUNIC, DRAPED, SINGLE AND DOUBLE TIER MODES. There are about 20 THREE-PIECE DRESSES INCLUDED, WITH LACE WAISTS AND STUNNING SKIRT AND COAT TO MATCH. All in all, more than sixty-five of the most fetching models for Summer.

Although Monday's selling of these wonderful Dresses at $5.00 was unusually brisk, we can absolutely assure Tuesday shoppers of complete variety of styles, materials and sizes from which to choose. In order to absolutely guard against any disappointment on the part of women unable to attend Monday, we have added to this special purchase a large number of Dresses from our own select stock—garments that have been considered exceptional bargains at $10, $15, $20 and $25 throughout the season. It is extremely advisable that you attend this sale if desirous of saving one-half or more of your Summer dress money. The values provided in ultra-fashionable Summer Dresses at $5 will be conceded absolutely without parallel.

Sale Continued at 8:30.

That's What They All Say.

A MAN who discovered our town.

Whose name was Pierre Lachade;

He was a man of great renown.

And very wise indeed.

He viewed the sight with keen delight

And came to a decision

And said, said he, "This town for

It looks like first division!"

In those days the Indians used to hold their war dances at Grand and Lachade. There was a massacre out there yesterday that brought up recollections of the old Indian days.

The way those Packers sailed down the Terriers, they must be going into the hot-dog business.

That man Kavanagh, who plays second base for the Tigers, would have been a great man for the Packers. That voice of his would knock old St. Louis off his horse.

It's as Clear as Greek.

However, "old boy" is some improvement on "at a boy" and shows that our great national game is advancing all the time.

The Tigers miss Ty Cobb greatly. So do the Browns.

Cobb is an attraction for fans and a distraction to ballplayers.

Some Show.

We've seen many shows

But, should anyone asque,

The greatest of all

Is the Pagant and Masque.

The fans of Pittsburgh are going to petition President Tener to keep

Empire Rigger away from Pittsburg.

For the love of cats, why should

Pittsburg be favored over any other city? St. Louis has to stand for Empire and all the rest of the umpires, and everybody knows there is no such thing as a good umpire.

Joe Murphy, the eminent actor, is said. He tried to "hand St. Louis a good old-fashioned fair on a silver platter and they wouldn't touch it.

Tough luck, Joe. Try Belleville.

Charley Herro is rumbling at the Federal League Magnates Will Complete Raid Plans Association Is Safe

"Gentlemen's Agreement" Provides That Outlaws Keep

Hands off the Class AA Organization — Johnson

Decision Will Not Affect Plans.

By W. J. O'CONNOR.

WHAT promises to be the most important meeting by Federal League promoters since their organization as an outlaw circuit will be held on Tuesday or, at the latest, Wednesday, of this week, in Chicago. A council of war, in which definite plans will be made for the impending raid on organized baseball, will be the big feature of the confab.

That the raid is "on," is an admission made by the heads of the new league, dispatches state.

The meeting which has been called for this week is for the purpose of learning just what men are sought by the various outlaw clubs and also to arrange that no two clubs will bid for the same player.

The meeting probably will be delayed until after the decision is handed down in the Chief Johnson case,

although the verdict in that decision should not go against the Feds, WILL

NOT PREVENT THE SCHEDULED

RAID. President Gilmore is quoted as saying:

"The St. Louis club is after three players to strengthen its line-up and two of these will be snared from the National League. Only one branch of organized baseball is safe, and that body, the American Association, seems destined to escape any financial loss in the proposed raid.

Association Works With Feds?

The association owners have a working agreement, strange as this may seem, with the Federal League promoters, who have promised not to steal a player from the National League. It is reported. This doesn't mean that the A. A. clubs are

"kiddo" with the outlaws, although it does indicate a friendliness which Empire Rigger and others are trying to exploit. The Feds

HAVE NOT SWIPED A PLAYER

The switch of Cozy Dolan to right field, where he is having the time of his life, probably means that

Manager Huggins is fortifying himself for the attack of the Federal raiders.

If Jack Miller jumps, per schedule, Hug will shift Lee Magee to first base and put Teddy Stearns at first. However, there's a royal good chance that Dolan will tarry in the outfield. He has almost made good in a three-day trial in right field.

It was with the idea of preparing for an emergency, in case Miller takes the field, that Hug decided to try Dolan in the outfield. Cozy has surprised by making good. He's hitting better than any of his associates in the outer defense.

PROSPERITY WAITS ON BELIEF IN IT: SAYS PRESIDENT

Wilson Thinks It Would Come With a Jump if Manufacturers Had Confidence.

TARIFF NOT TO BLAME

Any Depression, He Believes, Is Reflection From Disturbed Railway Offices.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—President Wilson today again expressed his conviction that any present unsatisfactory condition in business was not general, but was less felt in the United States than in any other part of the world. The President reiterated his view at the first conference he had had with the Washington correspondents since the Mexican situation became acute. Questions, however, on that subject, and on the Niagara mediation conference, were barred.

In reply to inquiries concerning the business situation as discussed in his statement last week to representatives of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association and other similar organizations, the President said it was his impression that any unsatisfactory condition centered very largely about the railway offices, and that was reflected in the steel industry and in other industries closely allied which depend especially upon railway development for prosperity. The President referred to a statement by Chairman Gary of the United States Steel Corporation that the general outlook in the steel business was good.

The President believes prosperity would come with a jump, if the manufacturers believed it was coming. He does not believe the tariff has anything to do with the depression. Secretary Redfield's statistics of exports over imports was cited by the President as proof.

Discussing the Clayton trust bill, the President said he did not understand the act was designed to grant to labor organizations any privileges they do not now enjoy. It is the purpose of the act, as he understands it, to define the rights of labor organizations more clearly and remove any doubt of their rights which has been created by various court decisions. It is not the understanding of the President that labor organizations are to be given any privileges denied to other organizations.

ACCUSES CARNEGIE MEN OF FALSE BALKAN REPORT

Georgetown Medical School Instructor Says Statements About Outrages Favor Bulgaria.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Dr. John C. Conatas of the Georgetown University medical school charges that the Carnegie Foundation Commission appointed to investigate the atrocities of the Balkan war, made false statements and drew false inferences to shield Bulgaria and discredit Greece. Dr. Conatas asserts that members of the commission, Prof. Miluhoff and Mr. Brailford, were highly objectionable to Serbia and Greece.

"Some of the members of the Carnegie Commission, in reporting on the atrocities, made statements that are untrue and misleading," said Conatas. "If there is another war in the Balkans, this commission that makes it a business to promote peace in part will be to blame for the outbreak."

"The Carnegie Foundation, whatever its aims may be, was misled in crossing the personnel of its peace-giving commission. The two members objectionable to Greece and Serbia were able to influence the other commissioners."

FIVE KILLED IN WRECK

Two Others Badly Injured When Engine Leaves Rails.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., June 1.—Five trainmen were killed and two perhaps mortally injured when a passenger locomotive on the Connelville division of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad was derailed at Cook's Mills, east of here, yesterday.

The locomotive was running light. An extra freight crew had boarded the engine to ride down the line to relieve another crew. The engine jumped from the rails and the men were scalded.

Threats to Blow Up Hospital. CHICAGO, June 1.—Threats to blow up the Columbus Extension Hospital caused the police to establish a guard around the institution today. Dr. C. Volini, former president of the White Hand Society, an organization formed to combat the so-called Black Handers, has received four letters demanding $5000 on pain of dynamiting the hospital.

PRINCE, IN LOUIS, RAPS U. S. POLICY IN MEXICO

Poniatowsky, Descendant of Polish King, Says Wilson Stirred Up Hornet's Nest.

"AMERICANS IMPULSIVE"

President Likened to Man Who Holds Off Fighters and Watches House Burn.

Prince Andre Poniatowsky, Paris banker and descendant of the King of Poland, at the Hotel Jefferson Monday, declared the American people were more impulsive than the French and characterized President Wilson's dictum that Huerta must retire in Mexico as a pedagogical error that had involved the United States with a hornet's nest. The Prince departed Monday in a private car to inspect the Katy Railroad system.

The Prince greeted newspaper reporters affably and his criticism of President Wilson on his Mexican policy was couched in terms of ridicule delivered with a merry twinkle in his eye.

"I do not like to say too much about the Mexican affair," said Poniatowsky, "because it is a delicate matter for you Americans—one that was gladly turned over to your President by the European diplomats when he manifested a desire to settle the affair."

"In Europe generally, the newspapers and the masses believe that Standard Oil is pulling the wires that have involved the United States in a quarrel with an individual, Huerta. We bankers do not hold this view at all, as we all appreciate that there is no point of contact between the special interests and the Wilson administration. It is a spectacle, though, to see the President of a great nation willing to involve the nation in a dispute with an individual whom he has refused to recognize as the head of another Government."

"European diplomats, believing the Mexican affair to be a hornet's nest, and having troubles of their own at home, were glad to permit President Wilson to shoulder the entire responsibility of protecting foreign interests when he sought the privilege some 16 months ago. Abroad, it was assumed that President Wilson and Mr. Bryan had a plan which they would announce at the proper time, but month after month of watchful waiting has rolled by with a loss of a billion and a half to foreign interests, and no plan has been outlined by President Wilson."

"This watchful waiting is as if President Wilson were in charge of a fire department, and waved the public back when a valuable building caught fire, saying, 'leave it to me,' and then saw down to watch the flames consume the structure."

"President Still Schoolmaster." "I am afraid your President is too much in the attitude of the school master still. He makes an announcement to his class, such as 'Huerta must go,' and confidently believes that anyone who disputes it must leave a university. He must come to realize that he is not giving instruction to boys before he can disentangle himself from the mess into which he has got himself. He should never have entered Vera Cruz—unless he was prepared to occupy the country. It was a terrible blunder. I suppose now that the verdict of the South American mediators will be criticized by Americans as the edict of a bunch of despots if it is unfavorable to the United States. Representatives of the European powers should have been included on the Mediation Board to make the verdict binding."

Prince Poniatowsky, who married an American girl and two of whose four children were born in San Francisco, keeps himself in touch with American affairs by frequent visits to the United States. His wife was Miss Ellen Sperry, who inherited a fortune from the Sperry and the Crookers, the latter one of the founders of the Southern Pacific Railroad system. The late E. H. Harriman was an intimate friend of Prince Poniatowsky, and he was Mrs. Harriman's guest at New York after his arrival May 27, from Paris. Investment by the French in American railroad securities has been largely guided by Prince Poniatowsky, notably in the $25,000,000 of Frisco railroad bonds held by the French. Confidence in American railroad securities has not been restored in France since the Frisco receivership announcement within a month after the sale of $3,000,000 of bonds in Paris, according to the Prince. "Our confidence will return when you Americans resume confidence in your securities," he said.

A worldwide business depression is most marked in those countries where universal suffrage exists, Poniatowsky asserted, and he attributes this to the energies of self-seeking politicians in those countries, who are ever eager to take advantage of discontent to advance their personal fortunes. "In America this is carried to the greatest extremity," declared the Prince. "You are essentially a commercial nation, and, by the way, it is another fault of the schoolmaster to your President to refuse to recognize this and take the ground always that principle alone guides Americans in their public policies. Americans are the most impulsive people of all nations, and in times of discontent you are quickest to seize upon and make the most of it."

Nathaniel Henry Lane Wilson, who are you not robbing the French nation?

Mrs. Mary Culver Gives $45,000 to Presbyterians for Annex

Corner Stone Laying Discloses It

Noted Charity Worker Provides for King's Highway Institutional Structure That Will Contain Pool, Kindergarten, "Gym" and Recreation Rooms.

A Post-Dispatch reporter learned Monday that Mrs. Mary E. Culver, of 5857 Cabanne avenue, widow of the late L. L. Culver, was the donor of $45,000 to the King's Highway Presbyterian Church for a new institutional annex, the corner stone of which was laid Sunday.

Mrs. Culver, who has been the secret benefactor of many charities, insisted in this gift, as in all of her others, her name should not be made known. The annex will be three stories high and will contain a swimming pool, kindergarten, gymnasium and club compartments. Its completion is expected by Oct. 1.

Although 73 years old, Mrs. Culver continues her active interest in many charities. Her wealth was inherited from her husband at his death, eight years ago. He was one of the principal stockholders of the Wrought Iron Range Co. Mrs. Culver has retained this stock, and recently joined with Robert H. Stockton, another holder of much of the company's stock, in giving $10,000 for distribution among the older employees of the company.

tion of its distinction as an impulsive people," was asked.

"Not at all," he replied. "You see, the French take it out in talk, while you Americans carry your impulsiveness into action."

"Your former Mexican Minister, Lane Wilson," continued the Prince, "advised President Wilson to follow in the steps of all the European diplomats and recognize Huerta's administration as the only existing government in Mexico. Huerta had the organization, the money and the ability to carry on the Government, while the highwaymen like Villa, who are opposing him, offer no promise of a stable government. The situation does not seem to have changed since Lane Wilson offered his advice."

Poniatowsky reached St. Louis Sunday evening and departed for Kansas City on a private car over the Missouri, Kansas & Texas at 9 p. m. Monday. He said there was no particular occasion for his inspection trip and that no issue of securities was to be offered by the "Katy." "I have promised for two years to inspect the system," he said, "and have come over for two weeks solely for this purpose."

Confidence in Sperry & Co. The reorganization of the Frisco system was progressing favorably, Poniatowsky said. He expressed confidence in the ability of Sperry & Co. to protect the interests of French investors, and had no information as to when a plan of reorganization might be announced.

Prince Poniatowsky is a descendant of Prince Stanislaus Poniatowsky, elected King of Poland in 1795. His brother, Prince Charles, who married Miss Maude Ely Goddard of New York, died in New York in 1906. Prince Andre lived in San Francisco after coming to America in 1892. He was made an officer of the Legion of Honor in 1912 by the French Government, because of his distinction as a financier and writer. His wife is a leader in charitable undertakings in Paris. He is 50 years old.

MRS. E. L. CULVER.

Frank Wyman Vacation Home near Eureka, Mo.

The corner stone of the church annex was laid at the Sunday School hour in the morning, the pupils joining in the ceremonies. Mrs. Culver occupied a place on the platform and while her name was not mentioned as the donor, she had not failed to appear and disclose facts when it was his privilege to do so, the Court will not now permit him to do so.

"The husband in all cases where he is sued for divorce and makes default may expect the Court to render a decree for alimony as well as for divorce when the finding is adverse to him—and this whether alimony is specifically prayed for or not."

"If this was generally understood it may be that husbands would appear in many cases and defend them, where they now make default."

Mrs. Schwartz at the time of her marriage to Schwartz was the divorced wife of Max Henry, a former saloon keeper. The name, Henry, was restored to her.

In trying to induce the Court not to award alimony it was alleged that Schwartz was unemployed and that Mrs. Schwartz had $2000 worth of personal property, $3000 worth of which was in the form of jewelry.

6 BOY SWIMMERS CAUGHT Police Seize Clothes of Boys in Quarry Pool.

Policemen from the Deer Street District at noon Sunday used well-tried methods to arrest six youths who were swimming in a pond in an abandoned quarry in the rear of 4392 Ashland avenue. The policemen charged that the youths were insufficiently attired for daylight swimming. The policemen seized their clothes and ordered the swimmers out of the water.

The youths gave their names as Clifford Peyton, 19, of 4739 Greer avenue; Max Lloyd, 17, of 4965 Marfit avenue; John Dwyer, 17, of 5230 Cote Brillante avenue; Frank Thomas, 17, of 1405 North Taylor avenue; Ernest Flannery, 15, of 4604A Marfit avenue, and Hewitt McCluskey, 15, of 2820 North Taylor avenue.

John Dougherty, 22 years old, of 1902 Louisiana avenue, a tree trimmer employed in the City Forestry Department, fell 25 feet from a limb of a tree in Carr Park, Monday morning, to the top of an iron picket fence, on which he was impaled. The sharp-pointed pickets entered Dougherty's back to a depth of three inches. His fall was caused by the breaking of the limb upon which he was sitting.

Dougherty was taken to the city hospital, where it was said his condition was dangerous.

Reports Pocket Picked of $5 on Car. Louis M. Thayer of 17 Lenox place told the police that street car pickpockets got $5 from him on a Market street car bound for Forest Park Highlands, Sunday night.

MAN REBUKED FOR REOPENING CASE GRANTING ALIMONY

Too Many Men Willing to Give up Wives, but Object to Expense, Says Judge Grimm.

CASE WAS NOT CONTESTED

Motion to Set Aside Decree Filed After Court Granted Woman Money Not Asked For.

Circuit Judge Grimm, in refusing Monday, to set aside a divorce which he granted May 4 to Pearl Schwartz in her suit against William L. Schwartz, a lace salesman, handed down a written decision in which he said:

"It seems that the number of men is quite large who would part with their wives without pang of regret and do not want to part with any of their money without great anguish of mind."

Schwartz made no defense to his wife's suit and the decree was granted by default. Although Mrs. Schwartz had not asked for alimony Judge Grimm awarded her $25 a month on her testimony that her husband's salary was $75 a month.

In asking that the decree be set aside Schwartz alleged the Court had not right to grant alimony when it was not specifically asked for in the petition.

In his decision Judge Grimm said: "If the defendant had a defense, it was his duty to appear and make it. Having failed to appear and disclose facts when it was his privilege to do so, the Court will not now permit him to do so."

"The husband in all cases where he is sued for divorce and makes default may expect the Court to render a decree for alimony as well as for divorce when the finding is adverse to him—and this whether alimony is specifically prayed for or not."

Membership Buttons Are to Be Given Pure Milk League Workers

HANDSOME buttons, testifying to their wearer's membership in the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk League, now are ready for distribution to all who become league members during the summer of 1914.

They bear the inscription "Post-Dispatch Pure Milk League" and are ornamented with an attractive drawing of the Post-Dispatch Weather Bird in colors and with a bottle of pure milk in its "hand."

Membership in the league is won by helping the league to save the babies.

A membership card also will be sent to all who thus qualify for league membership.

HOBOS DECORATE GRAVES OF CITY'S PAUPER DEAD

Graves in the Potter's Field were decorated by 200 hobos yesterday, and memorial services held there were said to be the first time in the history of St. Louis that the pauper dead have been so honored.

Shortly after 3 o'clock, 200 members of the International Brotherhood Welfare Association, familiarly known as "Hob's Hoboes," marched to the field under the leadership of James Eads How.

A few friends of the association had sent flowers, but in the main the floral offerings of the wild growing variety were brought by the men themselves.

Prayer was offered by James A. C. Anderson of the brotherhood, and How advocated that each memorial day in the future similar services be conducted.

Mrs. Alice Curtis Moyer, secretary of the St. Louis Equal Suffrage League, said it was baffling that those who had fallen defeated in the battle of life should be remembered as well as those who fell upon fields of battle.

In trying to induce the Court not to award alimony it was alleged that Schwartz was unemployed and that Mrs. Schwartz had $2000 worth of personal property, $3000 worth of which was in the form of jewelry.

WOMAN SUES RICH FARMER FOR $45,000

Michel Dennis, a wealthy young farmer near Valley Park, was sued for $45,000 in the Clayton Circuit Court Monday, by Emma Knause, who alleges in her petition that he refused to carry out several promises to marry her.

Miss Knause alleges that, while she was employed as a housekeeper in the home of John Dennis, who is now dead, she met Michel Dennis, and that he "made violent love to her," and in July, 1912, and at numerous other times asked her to become his wife. She alleges that she agreed to marry him, and that later, when she insisted that he carry out the contract, he refused.

She alleges that because of his promise and his refusal to marry her she has suffered actual damages of $25,000. She is represented by Glenn Jones and C. Porter Johnson.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Repeat the Pageant Later.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
To stimulate civic pride, let us imitate Oberamergau, and give the Pageant every five years. Citizens are awakening from their lethargy, and taking pride in the town. All honor to those originating and those who carry out the idea of the present Pageant. WILLIAM DWYER.

A Partisan of Pevely Sadders.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I'm strong for Pevely Sadders along with Mrs. Mary Folger, Mrs. Emma Spence, the "Woman Who Loves Justice," and the woman writer of the Globe-Democrat who signs herself "Imogen." Pevely Sadders is more of a hero than Hobson. It is not much to sink an old boat, but it is something to ride from Vera Cruz to Mexico City in the face of the enemy. If Pevely gets back I hope the Woman's Club will give him a reception and have him tell his experiences. Let the men look at us if they want to, but we know a true hero when we see one. Let the men remember that it is us women who make heroes. It wasn't for us there wouldn't be any heroes; they wouldn't act heroic. Therefore we ought to always recognize and reward them by smiles or testimonials or other fitting appreciation. ONE WHO LOVES A HERO.

As to Hobsonizing Pevely.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
Please send me with the other women who admire Pevely Sadders' heroism in riding into the City of Mexico. But it is a reflection on our sex to suppose we are going to kiss him if he returns from war. Can't self-respecting women pay their tribute to our brave boys at the front without getting hysterical and making over the men? Besides, some silly goose made themselves ridiculous about Mr. Hobson. Is no sign that the rest of us will be have disgraced with Mr. Sadders, whom may have protect. Is the prayer of.

Dwight III, May 11.
MISS CAREY DEAN.

From One Who Kissed Hobson.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I venture it was some handsome man who wrote that Hero Pevely Sadders is too ugly for us ladies to kiss. If he ever gets back to Mexico City, would say to the handsome man that handsome is what handsome does, and Pevely sure has done handsome. Also, kisses go by favor, not by feature. ONE WHO KISSED HOBSON.

Alton III, May 11.

The Jefferson School and Its Teachers.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
As a former public school teacher under Miss Sarah McGuire of the Jefferson School, I regret deeply the punishment of a pupil by her. So wonderful a woman deserves more than a mere recital of what to her was a most unpleasant duty. Her problems are hard for the public to understand. Her school is the educational "melting pot." Many cultured and prosperous business men point to Miss McGuire as responsible for their success. She has pupils of many nationalities and classes and has a most wonderful understanding of their needs and temperaments. She not only looks after their intellectual and cultural life, but those needy are fed, the dirtiest are cleaned (every day is bath day in the bathroom of the Jefferson School), and those eager for culture and education are encouraged.

As a new teacher, Miss McGuire explained, in long interviews with me, the complexities that surround a teacher in her school. She said that with the erring truants to the Juvenile Court to help plead for them, to their homes, to the House of Correction to see conditions there, to the schools for deficient children, to lectures to boost on immigration, and to countless and disagreeable for medical aid. She organized her teachers in a class for the study of Italian so that they might gain the interest and confidence of parents and pupils who could not understand English.

Her patience and sympathy with children are remarkable. It would have been much easier for her to have "expelled" the "bad boy," turned him on the streets to attract more boys, or to help fill the already too full House of Correction. She simply "gives up" a boy and for her pains, because she decided a sound whipping might save him, she must be severely criticized and few will be able to judge her with any justice.

A school physician of one of the largest cities of Germany said the Jefferson School was the most interesting place he saw in this country and that Miss McGuire was wonderful to carry on such difficult work with such perfect harmony. She and her teachers not only teach school but practically raise many of the pupils. Their school is old and situated in the "blague spot of tuberculosis" in the United States. Their pupils are often ill-dressed, ill-clothed, abnormal foreigners, with little faith or understanding in our customs.

For all their extra work and extra risk they never receive an extra pay. They all love their work and enjoy their work and their children.

A FORMER JEFFERSON TEACHER.

USEFUL SCHOLARSHIP.

President Wilson's remarks at the opening of the American University bear repetition:
"Scholarship, it seems to me, is the mastery, the exact mastery and comprehension of great bodies of knowledge, and the comprehension is more difficult than the mastery. It is much easier to acquire than it is to interpret, and yet all knowledge is dead which is not interpreted. The vision of the scholar is worth more to the world than his industry. It is knowledge properly interpreted, seen with a vision of insight, that is uniting the world, the spirits of the world."

That is a neat phrasing of the animating purpose and spirit of modern research, clearly distinguishing it from that earlier scholarship which was an ornament of leisure. The latter connoted chiefly belles lettres. It adored the classics for their own sake. It was prettily typified in Pope. It despised the present; it was skeptical of the future, to which it had its back turned; it faced the past. At best, it was learning for its own sake. True, it was admirable, even when touched with the most vanity, for a sheer affectation of learning is a light preferable to darkness or indifference. But it contributed only indirectly and comparatively slowly to human advancement.

The light of modern research shines straight ahead. It is a fusion of intelligences to which the past is used only as a reflector. Open at random any modern or relatively modern work of science and see to what direct use scholarship puts the past. Empirical knowledge is made a means to penetrate "some of that mist which separates the present from the future." For example, Sir John Lubbock's "Origin of Civilization and Primitive Condition of Man."

It cannot be doubted that the careful study of manners and customs, traditions and superstitions, will eventually solve many difficult problems of ethnology. . . .
"The study of savage life is, moreover, as I have already observed, of peculiar importance to us, forming as we do, part of a great empire, with colonies in every part of the world and fellow-citizens in many stages of civilization."

The early "scholar" read Tacitus as a classic example of the Greek, whereas today the student of sociology values him for the exact information which his methodical habits of observation enabled him to contribute to the record of society's advance. Plato is no longer read primarily for his perfection of style, his irony, humor, imagery or dramatic power, but for his illumination of political truths; and the student of today harks back to him as the first of the Greeks who conceived a method of knowledge.

Modern research is inspired grubbing and a sort of enlightened groping. It is common effort and common dedication to human welfare and progress, as President Wilson's remarks suggest. It is not alone to dream, but to strive to realize dreams. And contrasted with vanity and pretense it is characterized by humbleness and sacrifice. The whole spirit of modern research is epitomized beautifully, almost poetically, in the life of Louis Pasteur.

THE PINCH WE ESCAPED.

There is wide-spread apprehension among our people. The pinch of poverty is felt in many a household—The Colonel as he called for Spain.

But the country has escaped the calamity to business and individual opportunity that would be impending had Mr. Roosevelt been elected. Our escape from the apprehension and pinch of poverty under the Colonel in 1907-08 is still gratefully remembered.

NATURE NOT TO BLAME.

A reader asks what useful lesson or moral is intended for mankind by the recent horrible catastrophe to the steamship Empress of Ireland. "Must we," he asks, "give assent to the terrible arraignment made by the great philosopher Schopenhauer that nature is pitiless—oftentimes needlessly cruel to her children?"

The reasoning is superficial and false. The disaster to the Empress of Ireland, like that to the Titanic, was entirely due to the ignorance and recklessness of men. Nature simply carried out her laws, as is inevitable, after men had defied those laws. Shall the laws of nature be annulled when men defy them? If so, they would have to be annulled in the least as well as the greatest emergency. The child who played with fire would have to go immune; but fire would cease to warm and serve mankind. The drunkard would never get delirium tremens, or the poison drinker sickness and death; but medicines would cease to exist. The man who stepped off a high scaffold would have to be permitted to alight as a feather; but gravity would cease and the world fly to pieces. The boy who jumped into a swift current unable to swim would float; but water would lose many of its useful qualities.

In order that human life may continue or the universe serve man's needs, the laws of nature must be immutable. If we defy them by ignorance or recklessness, we must pay the penalty of our folly.

"We don't build ships with the expectation that they will be rammed by other ships," says Lewis Nixon. Why not begin building them with that expectation?

PEVELY SADDERS AND HOBSON.

We deplore the hysteria of women over the heroism of Pevely Sadders. We condemn the maudlin sentimentality which compares him to Paul Revere and other famous patriots. We grant that Pevely Sadders' ride to Mexico City through the midst of the enemy was brave, though it has not yet borne fruit.

Whether it shall bear any fruit whatever for the good of his country remains to be seen. It is apparent that he performed no such service as Paul Revere. Paul cried alarm to his own countrymen; Pevely only scared the enemy. Certainly Pevely was not routing the enemy as Gen. Putnam was on his historic dash. It may be that Pevely Sadders was carrying "a message to Garcia." In the form of a last hint to Huerta, but that is conjectural at best. Pevely's ride may have been only a piece of daredevilry or a wanton prank or hoax to expose the cowardice of the Mexicans. If any of them actually dropped dead of fright at his apparition (which remains to be ascertained), then his heroism will have been justified.

But we especially deplore, at this time, or any other, the comparison, by the women, of Pevely Sadders to Richmond Pearson Hobson. If Pevely Sadders returns to the United States alive, are we threatened with a repetition of those silly reports which adoring women accorded the brave Hobson? Will they kiss Pevely every time he appears in public? Will they tempt him to exhibit himself for pay on the Chautauqua circuit?

We beg the adoring widows, spinsters, and even wives, who are exciting all the fuss about him to stop and reflect on the immorality of heroizing a man of admittedly inferior character. Hobson was, and is, a strong man of exemplary virtues and a champion of temperance. Pevely Sadders is not only a moral weakling, but a victim of habits, and a vicious example whom it were dangerous to exalt as an idol.

EXPLAINING THE CHARTER.

The first article of the series written for the Post-Dispatch by Col. Fred D. Gardner, comparing Articles I of the old and new charters and explaining the provisions of the latter, was clear and interesting. It was thoroughly informing. No one who read it could fail to understand the differences in the powers conferred on the city by the charters, the great enlargement of municipal powers in the new charter and the convincing reasons therefor.

The adoption of the new charter would enable the city to do all that is necessary for the protection of the people from inadequate or oppressive public service, for needed public improvements and the promotion of the public welfare in any way. The city needs these powers.

The next article will compare and explain Article II. It will be published Tuesday. Every voter should read it.

ALDERMEN UNDER NEW CHARTER.

Prejudice against the new charter is being created by asserting that it will make the Board of Aldermen the tools of the politicians. Thomas J. Rowe, who refused to sign the draft of the charter, says: "It, in effect, provides that the Board of Aldermen shall consist of 28 members, who shall be members of the Democratic or Republican City Central Committees."

The manner of election of the members of the proposed Board of Aldermen will, of course, decide whether they shall be tools of a party or servants of the city. Article IV of the proposed charter provides that the President of the board shall be "elected as such by general ticket from the city at large," and that there shall be "28 members, one from each ward, to be known and elected by general ticket as Aldermen from the ward from which elected."

Article II of the proposed charter, on "Elections," provides for a general city election biennially in April, at which the Board of Aldermen shall be elected. And section 4 of that article specially provides that "Every elective city officer, including the President and members of the Board of Aldermen, shall be elected by a general ticket."

Mr. Rowe and those who oppose the new charter on the ground of political control of the Board of Aldermen admit that this body would be selected by primary elections. It is needless to say that the proposed charter gives no such power to the City Central Committees of the political parties as is suggested by Mr. Rowe. And there is nothing, direct or indirect, in any of its provisions depriving the electors of the legal power of nominating candidates without regard to the political committees.

Until the Constitution is changed, any member of the proposed Board of Aldermen can be selected by the voters at large, voted for and elected, over the heads of and absolutely without the sanction of the political bosses or committees.

THE G. O. P. SOUTHERN DELEGATE.

The changed basis of Southern representation in Republican national conventions will still leave every district at least one delegate, even though the Republican vote in such district may not exceed a dozen. So far as this new basis is concerned, it only promises that the evils of the future shall be different in degree, rather than in kind, from the evils of the past. Delegates for sale from the section in which delegates have most frequently been for sale in the past will be only a little more than half as many as in former years.

What the party needs more than an altered ratio of representation is a thorough-going reform that will purge it of the bosses who buy delegates. When there are no bosses to buy there will be no delegates to sell their votes.

JUDGE TRIEBER'S BIRD LAW DECISION.

Although a decision by Federal Judge Elliott at Sioux Falls, S. D., had previously held the congressional act for the protection of migratory birds valid, the decision of Judge Jacob Trieber at Jonesboro, Ark., points out fatal defects in the assumptions on which the act is based as must cause grave uneasiness as to its fate on appeal.

The Trieber argument is predicated on the lack of any authority delegated to Congress for legislating on this subject and on prior decisions affirming state control over wild game. But the close of the argument does not eliminate so many theories as to the limit of Federal action as to leave Congress completely helpless.

Birds killed in contravention of the terms of the act can be prohibited from becoming articles of interstate trade. That would help some, even though it would leave the game butchers a deplorable latitude in slaughtering birds to be retained within states. Then Congress' control over navigable waters is so complete that the nonobservance of the terms of the act on such waters might be heavily penalized. That also would help some, though killing on non-navigable waters and land within states would be regulated only by conflicting state laws.

A further mighty power is still left to Congress by the decision—the fearsome taxing power. To kill varieties of birds which it is desirable to protect, may not game butchers be required to take out a license and may not the tax on the license be made prohibitive?

The Audubon societies need not despair if the present form of the bird act proves defective. That has often happened when Congress has attempted to invade experimental fields of legislation. As in the past, the substantial object sought may be accomplished by an act cast in different form.

THE MEN WHO MADE THE PAGEANT.

THE men who made the Pageant
Were like the pioneers;
They kept right on in sweet contempt
For other people's fears.
They knew that human nature
Will say it can't be done,
And they kept on like the caravels that trailed the setting sun.

THE men who made the Pageant
Had true explorer's fire;
Nor any unwariness
Could smother their desire.
They kept on persevering,
And came at length to rest
Beside the sea of things well done, like Fremont in the West.

THE men who made the Pageant
Are softly laughing last;
The perils we predicted
Have all been safely passed.
They always are, you'll notice,
When men will not say die,
And come at length to victory beneath the starry sky.

A balloon party which sailed from St. Louis Sunday afternoon called up relatives from Lebanon, Ill., on landing near there an hour or so later. A sport which necessitates calling up relatives is not contributing a great deal to the safety first movement.

Alexander Berkman, who was an anarchist, has become an Industrial Worker of the World. Alexander will be said to be our foremost leader of unpopular movements.

"Father, may I marry an Italian count?"
"No. I will buy you something else you like before we go home."

The Pageant is not only entertaining us with the greatest spectacle in history, but it is giving us a few very much needed rains.

Take your own soda water to the Pageant.

Why not keep the Pageant up for the rest of the week? We would all like to see it three or four times, and as long as the drought continues in the country around, farmers will not have another thing on earth to do.

The mystery of whose carelessness caused the loss of the Empress of Ireland, threatens to become much thicker than the fog in which the collision occurred.

Col. Roosevelt and the King of Spain, both of whom have been shot at, ought to be as chummy as a couple of old G. A. R. men.

Miss Charlotte Rumbold's title as Mith of the Pageant is permanent, anyway. Just a Minute saw to that.

Huerta has not fled. He has some cognac left, thank you.

Et tu, Terriers?

Geel! Wouldn't it be great if they'd teach all history this way, Bill?

Senator Culpeper Hears That Pevely Sadders Is Dead.

Special Dispatch From Washington

Culpeper Headquarters.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Sen. Culpeper today received private advice from the City of Mexico reciting the rumor that his military substitute, Pevely Sadders is missing and supposed to have been killed by the same Huerta agents who stole the famous Culpeper mule which Pevely rode.

Sen. Culpeper was torn by conflicting emotions. His sorrow over the loss of the mule was evidently profound. As for the rumored death of his hired man, the Senator said:

"I cannot trust myself to speak of it until I learn whether the rumor is true. If it is true I will keep my promise to the nation and eulogize Pevely on the floor of the Senate. I will spread the recital of his heroism and his many virtues on the pages of the Congressional Record. But I'm not going to do it until I learn positively that he is dead. I don't want the damn scoundrel turning up alive to spoil my eulogy and make me look foolish. He never failed to take disadvantage of every inopportune moment during his lifetime and it would be just like his corpse to rise up and interrupt my funeral oration on a question of personal privilege."

"Furthermore, I'll not introduce the promised special pension bill on behalf of his widow and have him come back and make me out a grafter. I know enough about Pevely Sadders to take no chances on him, living or dead."

"I have been criticized by the press in some quarters for my apparent indifference to the fate of my hired man, whom I paid to go to Mexico as my substitute. Let me answer these criticisms once and for all by saying with all possible emphasis that I am not indifferent. Nobody could possibly feel as deeply concerned in the fate of Pevely Sadders as I am."

Blow to the G. O. P.

From the New York World.

The hardest luck the Republican party could possibly have, would be for a bumper wheat crop to fall in a year when it is out of power and cannot claim the credit for the farmers' prosperity.

SOFT FISH BONES.—The salad oil in which canned salmon is packed dissolves the lime salt in the bones and by this process the bones are made soft. Sardines are first carefully washed in the salad oil, then the head, gills, etc., are removed, they are then washed again and are packed on willow branches or wire work, exposed to the sun and wind. If the weather is dry but in damp and rainy weather to a current of air under cover. They are next put into boiling oil, in which they remain for a short time; and when they are taken out the oil is drained away and they are put in the familiar tin boxes. The boxes being filled with sardines are then filled with oil and is soldered on and they are placed for a short time in boiling water, or have leaked or have burst are ready for market.

HEALTH HINTS.

HATTIE.—The vaseline preparation mentioned is not strong at all. There are many better for the use you mention.

ANXIOUS.—We have never heard of olive oil softening the bones. Teap tablespoon may be taken after meals. Many put it on their food.

JENNIE.—In regard to the weakness you suppose to have caused by a cold, get after your nose and throat specialist, who will trace the cause.

J. O. D.—Take baby to a physician who will give a prescription of a kind of milk baby needs. Right in St. Louis physicians will do it for nothing. Take prescription to P. M. M. Laboratory, 125 North Thirtieth street (telephone Bell 7-111), and the milk will be sent to the distributing station nearest your home, where you must call for it daily.

IDA.—A reader writes this for you: The writer's experience, long drawnout and expensive, causes him to fear that a remedy for the head noises and the progressive deafness sure to follow is yet to be found, despite the large number of so-called aural specialists, who smile blandly, assure you positively, fail dimly and bleed you regularly three dollars a visit, three times a week. If you will procure a copy of my standard treatise on Diseases of the Ear, and carefully read it, notably Pevely's of Vienna, she will add to her fund of practical information and possibly a ray of encouragement in what is set forth.

J. E. B.—Director Morse of the Missouri Botanical Garden says it is not customary to sprout either magnolias or tulips from cuttings, as they grow so easily from seed that this method is usually the one resorted to. So far as I know, magnolias and tulip cuttings are placed in warm sand until a callous has formed over the cut surface, then they will root in soil. I should not expect any results whatever from putting the branches into water.

C. H. T.—As to Roosevelt and the South American "bill," the following clipping from the Charleston Observer appeared some time ago in the Post-Dispatch: "The facts about that alleged bill for $300,000 presented by Col. Roosevelt for a lecture at Rio while visiting the country turn out. If we may believe the Brazilians, to have been that a sum of money (amount not stated), was pressed upon him. He didn't ask for it, didn't hint for it, and wouldn't accept it until he was refused on his part might be misunderstood. We never believed the original canon it was much more variance with the character of the man."

BRIGHT MUSICAL COMEDY WINS AT SUBURBAN PARK

"Love and Politics" Well Presented, With Joe Howard and Mabel McCane as Stars.

By RIPLEY D. SAUNDERS.
WITH "Love and Politics," a bright and tuneful musical comedy, its scenes laid in Chicago, as the christening attraction of the new season at Suburban Park Theater, the promise of a prosperous summer seems to be reasonably sure of development into accomplished fact.
The Suburban Park management presents a genuinely good company and gives the opening play a pleasing production.
The two stars, Joseph E. Howard and Mabel McCane, already are established St. Louis favorites. They are well placed in "Love and Politics" and win the cordial approval of the Suburban Theater's audiences.
"St. Louis," a song of Joe Howard's composing and singing, repeated on Sunday evening the hit which it scored at Saturday night's opening.
Mabel McCane's two best song numbers are "How Was I to Know?" and "Wise Old Owl," both of which are catchingly sung. Miss McCane's vivacious acting also seemed greatly to be relished, intensifying the favor with which her performance was received.

Alma Youlin, prima donna, deservedly shared in the honors of Sunday night's performance. Among others in the company are Queenie Queenan, the Oliver; George Fox, Al Denier, Ed Anderson, True Powers, Harry Dickerson and Lily Denier. The chorus has been well trained by Musical Director Herbert Strothart.

Suburban Park and its theater, both improved and beautified, present a very attractive appearance.

WRECK OF KARLUK DISPROVES THEORY HELD BY EXPLORERS

Loss of Ship Near Siberia Shows Direction of Ice Drift Is Westerly, Not Northerly.

SEATTLE, Wash., June 1.—Cable dispatches from St. Michael and Nome indicate that when Vilhjalmur Stefansson's exploring ship Karluk was crushed in the Arctic near Herald Island, northeast of Siberia, last June 16, the men saved their instruments, supplies, dogs and food and left only the crushed hull and its coal cargo when they headed east over the ice to camp on Wrangell Island.
The experience of the Karluk proves that the drift of the ice sheet from Point Barrow is not northerly, as had been supposed, but westerly. Both Stefansson and Amundsen believed that a ship entering the pack at Point Barrow would be carried across the pole and to Greenland.

It is expected that the Canadian Government will authorize Capt. Robert A. Bartlett, who is at St. Michael, where he arrived after a dog team and sea journey from Wrangell Island, to engage a ship to go to the island and bring off the men marooned there. Bartlett is now navigating over its whole area, and the whaler Herman, the relief ship most available, should be able to enter the arctic zone. The Karluk's men will be landed at Nome, whence they can take a steamer to Seattle. It is now believed that they can reach Nome in time to board a vessel bound for Point Barrow, from which place they could strive to join the second division of the Stefansson expedition at the mouth of the Mackenzie.

Probably the Canadian Government will send dispatches down the Mackenzie River by canoe to Stefansson, notifying him of the loss of the Karluk. Destruction of the Karluk will not interfere with the more practical part of the expedition's work, which was the survey and charting of the passages at the mouth of the Mackenzie and the geographical survey of the islands thereabouts, that are believed to contain copper and coal.

It was planned to have the Karluk drift north from Point Barrow in search of the polar continent which most Arctic explorers believe to exist, but knowledge gained by the Karluk's scientists of the direction of the drift is expected to show that such a project is not feasible. Stefansson and his southern division are ready for a busy summer at the mouth of the Mackenzie and the adjacent islands.

THE weather permitting, "A Midsummer Night's Dream" will be given on the lawn of the Algonquin Golf Club, in Webster Groves, by the Ben Greet players, Monday evening.
The performance will be preceded by a table d'hôte dinner for the members and their guests, many of whom will go out from town. It will be one of the fashionable affairs of the week.

The marriage of Miss Marie Akina, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Akina, and Edgar R. Simpson will take place Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, at the home of the bride, 2427 McLaran avenue, the Rev. William J. Williamson of the Third Baptist Church officiating. May Elizabeth Akina, who has come from Morrisville, Ill., with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James D. Akina, and James Jr., for the wedding, will be flower girl and will be the bride's only attendant.
The bride will wear some of her mother's wedding lace of rose point to trim her gown and veil. After the ceremony, there will be a small reception and then Mr. Simpson and his bride will depart for Montreal, whence they will sail Saturday, for Europe to spend their honeymoon. Miss Zoe Akina, who has been in New York all winter, has returned for the nuptials, and will remain here part of the summer with her parents.
The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Belle Buckingham Simpson and the late William S. Simpson. Upon their return from abroad, Mr. Simpson and his bride will take possession of their apartment at 201 Lafayette avenue, which will be in readiness for them.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence O. Gamble, who have been abroad on their wedding trip, landed at New York, Saturday. They have stopped over in Pittsburgh to visit Mr. and Mrs. Harold Simpkins, who have gone there to live, and will arrive in St. Louis Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Kerr of 3707 West Pine boulevard have gone to Pasadena, Cal., to stay several weeks.

Mrs. Frederick Brewster Bassett departed last week to join Lieutenant Commander Bassett, U. S. N., in Washington. D. C. Mrs. Bassett came to St. Louis to be with her mother, Mrs. John M. Harney, while Commander Bassett was at sea. Mrs. Harney is the guest of her cousin, Mrs. Sarah Chambers of Ferguson, with whom she will spend the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Diamond have returned to St. Louis after a three months' tour through England, France, Switzerland, Italy and Germany. They were passengers on the "Vaterland" by way first trip to America. For the present they will reside at the Buckingham Annex.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Borheim celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary at their home, 4845 Lotus avenue, Friday evening. A large tent was erected on the rear lawn for the supper and the interior, as well as the residence, was decorated with flowers and electric lights. About 80 guests were present and the Rev. Mr. Jesse of Mount Calvary Church performed the ceremony. Four students from the Concordia Seminary and Mrs. Branahl furnished the music. Many silver and cut glass presents were received.

The dates for the convention of the American Guild of Violinists have been changed to June 11, 12 and 13. The Planters Hotel has been definitely selected as the place of meeting. The public is invited to attend all the concerts to be given by the Guild.

Miss Sadye Marks, formerly of St. Louis, but now residing in Minneapolis, Minn., is visiting friends in St. Louis. At present she is the guest of Miss Turk at 4024 A Page boulevard.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week our store will be open wide (heart and soul) to brides and grooms contemplating house-keeping.

We hesitate to call this event a sale on account of the abuse given this phrase during the past six months. It will not be a sale, but an honest reduction of prices on all orders amounting to one hundred dollars or over.

You may rest absolutely assured that the Rhodes-Burford Housefurnishing Co., with their ten stores, are able to quote prices nearer to "Rock Bottom" than any other concern in St. Louis.

We cordially invite your inspection—remember you do not have to buy—simply come in and ask to be shown through our store. Our salesmen will not embarrass you by insisting upon your buying, but will be eager to help you with the furnishing of your new home.

OUR TERMS

To those desiring credit accommodations we will gladly arrange for payments to be made by the week or month, with small first payment and the balance by the week or month or to suit your own convenience.

"Bill"

In Which Bill and His Friend Izzy Observe the Soop's Birthday—on the Instalment Plan.

Bill declares a truce with the "Soop"! Hereafter all is to be peace and good will. In testimonial of which Bill presents the "Soop" with a magnificent example of a clock. And everything goes swim-mingly—for a little while.

By PAUL WEST.

"F"ER heaven's sake!" I says to Denny, th' left-hand elevator guy, wan day, 'what's come over th' soop?' 'Whaddya mean, came over him?' he says. 'Way, didn't yer notice?' I says. 'An' I ridin' up in yer car insid' o' th' freight, like he's been makin' me every day for a month?' 'An' says Denny, 'he can't be no-thing everythin' an' probably he didn't see yer'.

"I've seen me," I says, "an' shoves an' inter yer car himself. Lookit him now, I says, 'before Denny starts th' engine, an' there's that grouch o' th' Soop shakin' hands wid a couple o' guys, an' smilin' as Finnigan's cat when she found th' fish on th' window sill an' th' family out. 'Lookit him!' I says. 'An' crack his mask grinin' like that. He must be runnin' for sumpin'.' I says. 'Wow!' says Denny, givin' th' car a jump. 'I'm glad youse mentioned it, fer an' me word I'd o' forgot th' whole thing, an' me job wouldn't a been wort' no-thing,' he says. 'Tis time an' th' old undertaker's birthday,' he says, 'an' all this vaselinin' he's doin' is to remind every wan o' th' day time an' a little while in come th' Soop's birthday. He says, 'I'll have ter be diggin' down fer sumpin' fer to slip him somethin'!' 'I'd put a powdered lamp chimney in his food first,' I says. 'Don't do it,' I says. 'No!' says Denny. 'An' git me an' mysoy Battiddy!' 'To have me sym-patiz' I says, gettin' out at our floor. 'Thanks be I don't have ter be lickin' th' boots o' that guy,' I says. 'I would be easier fer youse in th' buildin'!' says Denny, startin' his car down. 'If youse done a little o' it,' 'Not me!' I says. 'But in a little while in come th' Soop's birthday an' fings it on me desk, an' it's addressed to th' Soop—Mister Pat-son, Looch.

"I've a run downstairs," he says, 'an' slip that in th' Soop with me con-sultants,' he says. 'Tis a nice pair o' gloves fer his birthday,' he says. 'Fer don't want ter lettin' th' day slip by, Harry,' he says to his brother. 'An' old hurrle's got a list, an' any guy what don't flog on it want a year in to wrong.

"What'll I be givin' him?" says Mister Harry. 'Kissin'!' says th' Soop. 'An' who got o' sumpin' he wouldn't. I'm givin' ter give him th' same.' 'A right,

"HELP WANTED!"

I wasn't so crazy about it meself nex' mornin', 'spec'ally when I found all I could dig up was fifty cents, but I tucked that in me jeans, anyhow, an' come down to th' office. An' th' first guy I bumps agin is Izzy, talkin' wid Denny, who's off dooty fer awhile. 'Lissen, Shrimp!' he says. 'Ye hit th' gran' little wunsee, all right, about th' Soop's presint,' he says. 'I was wantin' they was an office kid in th' dump was just' grin' ter be fired, only he'd been salvin' th' Soop, an' th' Soop puts in a good word fer him wid his boss, an' insid' o' f'rin' him he gits his wages raised.

"That's right," says Denny. 'I knowed th' kid. I tink he's on th' polesee force or sumpin' now,' he says. 'I remem-ber it well,' he says. 'He gave the Soop a clock,' he says, 'an' twas that made him so keen fer him, th' Soop bein' crazy about clocks—fancy wans.' 'That's th' answer,' I says. 'He gets a clock. What kind do he like th' most?' I says. 'Well,' says Denny, 'th' time I bruk me leg on car number three an' he come over to me tinnimunt to buy me off from sun' th' buildin' no was that stuck on th' wan me old wom-an had buyed I tought he'd slip it un-der his coat. 'What was it like?' says Izzy. 'A big marble wan,' says Denny, 'wid a lot o' gold onto it. They ain't puttin' finer—it cost me old woman a dollar down an' a dollar a week fer a week. 'I'm kilt at wan blow,' says Izzy. 'We ain't no millionaires.' 'Oo, yer never mind th' dollar a week,' says Denny. 'An' anyhow, youse kin keep yer eye peeled fer th' instalment man. G'wan! Do th' ting up good.

Well, we must o' been easy, but any-how that noon, wid a hot puppy in our faces insid' o' our reglar lunch, we beats it fer th' place Denny tipped us to, an' insid' o' a' minutes out we come luggin' a clock youse could o' saw a mile off, an' th' two o' us signed down on th' paper fer to give th' guy a dollar a week till 'twas paid fer.

When we got to th' buildin', wid our

"I s'pose he got tired," he says wan day when we're comin' in from lunch? 'Anyhow, 'tis all over, so why should we worry?' 'Leave us drop in fer a chat wid th' Soop a minnut before hikin' up stairs,' I says. 'Sure,' says Izzy.

So in we sashays as sassy as a couple o' sparrows, an' up we goes to where th' Soop's settin', talkin' to some guy, an' then—

Zowie! Th' Soop has Izzy an' th' udder guy has me, an' who is it but th' instalment guy.

"That's th' two o' them!" he hollers. 'Them's th' two's been dodgin' me for a mont,' he says, chokin' th' lunch outen me.

An' jus' then they's some wan comes shovin' 'trough th' mob, an' it's th' good little old Boss.

"Here!" he says, grabbin' th' instal-ment guy be th' neck an' makin' him leave me go. 'What's this? An' youse, too,' he says to th' Soop. 'Th' big bully. What's all this, anyhow?' 'Well,' says the Soop, 'Mister Had-ley, 'tis jus' this!' An' he tells th' whole sad story about th' instalment guy astin' him where to locate us, an' findin' out about the clock an' all. 'I'll straighten out this matter,' th' Boss says. 'Come on, boys!

So up we goes in th' car wid him to our dump, an' th' next haff an hour an' at th' end he says:

"An' now I hope yer learned yer wassumpin' I'd like ter be forgettin' lesson an' I'll have nuttin' more to be doin' wid them pitfalls o' th' unwary, which, nex' to lyers, is probly th' worst scourge o' th' community laf-uh-nung, referin' o' course, to th' instalment parties. But they are nuttin' to be doin' but pay th' bill. 'Tis not much—only two small dollars from th' munificent wages o' each, an' youse won't miss it. I'll pay it now, an' youse kin return it. Unless, o' course, youse'd like fer to be astin' a cert'n udder party fer to foot th' charges."

"Who's this, Mister Hadley?" says Izzy.

"Th' Soop!" says th' Boss. Me an' Izzy jus' looks at each udder wanst, an' I says:

"Take the money out of us, Boss, if it starves us to death. I'll never go near enough to th' Soop to ast him

They "Hold You Up" for Frog Legs in New York City

THESE are busy days for the in-spectors of frog legs in New York City. They are visiting restau-rants to trap the unwary purveyor of the favorite food of France. For during April and May it is against the law to sell frog legs in New York State, and although the season opens early in June, many restaurants like to "rush it."

Pierre Lafage, the Plaza chef, who knows more about frog legs than any man in New York, says the latest New York culinary report on cooking frog legs shows there are 132 different ways of serving the dish, although there is no such thing as a saddle of frog legs.

"But the most delightful way is frog legs provençale," he said the other day. 'July frog legs cooked in butter with chervil and tarragon. Just think o' them! That style makes my mouth wa-ter. But New Yorkers seem to prefer them a la poulette—in a chafing dish of garlic. Frog legs mariniere is also very popular. It is very much like frog legs a la poulette, except that the frog legs are cooked with fresh mushrooms, cha-lottes, mussels and white wine."

Few people know that frog legs are the most expensive meat one can buy. Hotels pay 75 cents a pound for frogs, and only the legs can be served. Most of the frog legs served in New York come from Long Island and New Jer-sey. They are shipped into town in five-pound boxes. During June they will be on the menu of practically every leading hotel and restaurant in the city. Notwithstanding all this, frog legs are a cheap commodity in St. Louis. There are seasons of the year when a frog saddle can be purchased for 10 cents. There was a time in St. Louis when frog legs were a part of the daily menu on every free lunch counter. From this epicurean standpoint at least it will be seen that the cost of living in Gotham is much higher than here.

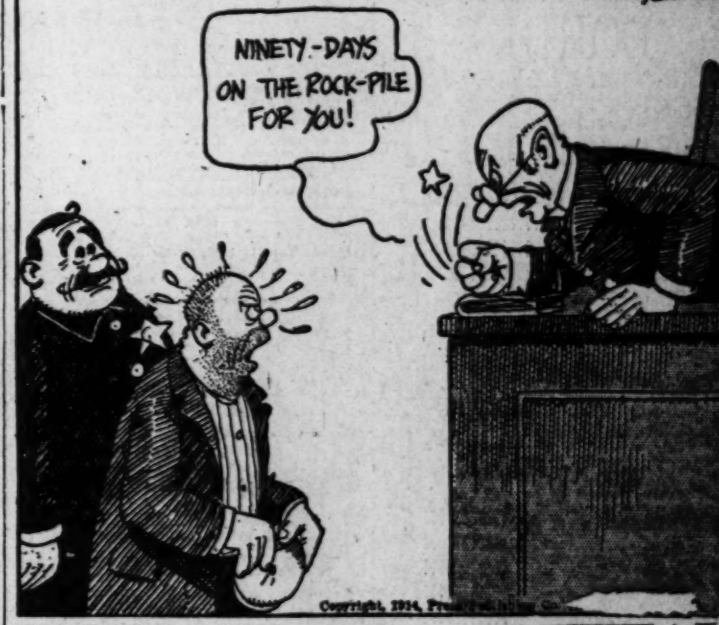

Very Suspicious.
 YOU don't feel quite sure of your wife's affection?" said the very confidential friend.
 "Not quite."
 "But she is always lavishing expensive presents on you."
 "Yes. But the presents do not denote the solicitude for my comfort and safety which I should like. First, she gave me a polo pony; then she gave me a racing motor car and now she is trying to persuade me to accept an aeroplane."
